NEWS OF THE DAY.

AN extensive religious revival prevails in Jersey City.

MR. LANDIS becomes madder and madder with each passing day.

THE Democratic press realizes that the outlook is squally, and it is consequently solemn and full of warning.

VICTOR HUGO and Louis Blanc are to constitute two out of the five Senators to which the Department of the Seine is entitled.

VICTOR HUGO has taken advantage of his candidacy for the French Senate to urge upon his countrymen the founding of a democracy which shall end foreign wars by arbitration, civil war by amnesty, and distress by education.

The exports from Boston for December, 1875, were valued at $2,995,978, as compared with $2,622,703 in 1874, and $2,308,747 in 1873. For the whole year the value of exports was $23,926,890, as compared with $29,053,975 in 1874, and $32,183,417 in 1873.

THE Wisconsin State Grange has matured measures to prevent the repeal or essential modification of the Potter law, and adopted resolution, calling for a law to limit banks to 6 per cent. interest, and for a repeal of the act increasing the rate of postage on transient printed matter, seeds, merchandise, etc.

THE Treasury Department decides that the sale of plug tobacco for retail purposes in any but the original stamped package is unlawful. To comply with this manufacturers will be compelled to put up large quantities of the weed in three, five and ten pound boxes, or lose the custom of the multitude of small dealers who cannot invest in a caddy.

AND NOW, following up the action of Germany and France, Russia is also increasing her army and navy. A letter from St. Petersburg in the Borsen Zeitung says that the Government has decided to increase the strength of the army and navy contingent by 30,000 men, so that it will consist of 180,00 instead of 150,000 as heretofore. This will allow the placing of the active army and reserve troops on a war footing at any moment.

REV. DR. NEWMAN, who made a trip among our Consuls, was before the House Committee on Expenditures in the State Department, and appears to have astonished the solons by the extent and variety of his information in regard to the consular service in the East. Among the curiosities of Dr. Newton's testimony was the information that American agricultural implements, sewing machines and petroleum are invading the land of Palestine, and that the seats of fallen empires in the Valley of the Euphrates are lighted by the products of the American oil region. At this rate we may live to see an American passenger steamboat company on the coast of Syria, whose pilots may occasionally unbend in Thackeray's prophetic couplet: "Ease her, stop her! Any passengers for Ionna."

THE WHISKY RING.

The Trials Resumed at St. Louis.

Three Witnesses Implicate McKee, of the "Globe-Democrat."

ST. LOUIS, January 22.—The United States Court room was crowded again today and the halls outside full of people who could not get into court. The first witness was B. H. Engelke, of the firm of Bernecker & Co., rectifiers. After stating that his firm had handled a good deal of "crooked" whisky, witness recounted a long conversation he had with McKee at the Globe-Democrat office in October, 1874, of which the following is the substance: I went to McKee at the solicitation of Henry Hardaway, ex-United States Storekeeper, and told him that Joyce had promised Hardaway that he should be given an interest in the Busby distillery, and that the product of that distillery should not be subject to levies for ring purposes. In consideration of this Henry Hardaway was to take care of Chas. Hardaway, his brother, Megrue and other fellows who threatened mischief. Hardaway complained that Joyce was dealing double with him, and that he and McDonald were always throwing obstacles in his way. Hardaway declared he would have nothing further to do with Joyce, and threatened if the Busby distillery arrangement was not carried out he and his friends, most of whom were ex-Gaugers and Storekeepers, and knew all about the illicit distilling that had been carried on, would Expose and Break up the Ring.

I told McKee that this was the arrangement insisted on by Hardaway and his friends, and that if it was not carried out they would burst the ring. I also told him they had already brought Supervisor Munn, of Illinois, over here, had gone around with him at night and showed him what the Busby house was doing; that Chat Hardaway had or was to have a commission from the Secretary of the Treasury to go through this district, and with the knowledge he had he knew just where to strike the ring. McKee asked if this was the only way they could be kept quiet, and I replied that this was the only thing they would accept, and furthermore, Henry Hardaway had particularly requested me to say to him (McKee) that he made the bullets and Chat fired them, that if he (McKee) and the ring could stand it they (the Hardaways) could. McKee then said he would drop a note to Joyce and have him come over and see him. I said Joyce was not at his office. McKee then said, "Try and keep them quiet for a few days, and I will see what can be done." I told him that would not do, as Hardaway and Barton were outside waiting for me, and want a positive and immediate answer. They had decided they would have no more shilly shallying. McKee told me he would see Joyce in the morning and for me to tell them that he would see that the arrangements they desired would be carried out. I then left and told the parties what McKee had said, and they seemed satisfied. Shortly afterward Henry Hardaway went into the Busby distillery as manager, and remained till about February, when they had among themselves and burst up. The distillery was run according to the arrangements made, and the whisky went to Bobb's house and my house for rectification. Some was brought with stamps and some without. If they had no stamp they sent it marked.

Witness also gave an account of another conversation he had with McKee shortly after the indictment had been found against the latter, in which witness stated that McKee attempted to make him believe that the conversation above related was about some goods of the witness which had been seized in Colorado, and that witness had asked him to intercede in his behalf with Collector Maguire and secure their release.

Witness continued: McKee asked me to refresh my memory regarding the matter, and determine if he was not right. I told Mr. McKee that it was absurd that I should go to him to invoke his influence with Maguire for interference with the concerns of local officers of Colorado. If I had had any goods under seizure there I would have known what to do without going to him. I then remarked something to this effect: "Mr. McKee, you are an old man, and ought to have more sense than to talk so." I never had any other conversation with McKee, and never had any conversation at all of the character he detailed.

Cross-examination.

On cross-examination witness again described the conversation with McKee at the Globe-Democrat office, but the defense failed to break down his statement made in the direct examination. A good deal of other testimony was brought out. It related to acts of witness as rectifier, and had no bearing on McKee. In reply to a question witness said he was under indictment, and had pleaded "Guilty" to some counts of the indictments against him. He was asked why it was he had pleaded "guilty" only to such counts as charged him with misdemeanor, why did he not plead guilty to those charging him with felony, as he had admitted felony in his testimony? He replied that he had left the whole matter to his attorney, and had followed his advice.

The defense evidently designed or desired to show that by this act of witness he had been asked to turn State's evidence or offered some inducement to take such a course, or been promised indulgence at the hands of the prosecution, but he emphatically denied this.

Testimony of S. D. Thorpe.

S. D. Thorpe, ex-United States Storekeeper, was the next witness, and testified to having performed service at various distilleries, and had received money from distillers for the ring and for himself. Witness continued: I remember when Megrue came here last June. I saw him at the Lindell Hotel on the day of his arrival. The same evening I saw McKee, and he asked me if I could not arrange an interview with Megrue, and I told him I thought I could. I saw Megrue again that night and told him of McKee's desire to see him, and he said he would be glad to see McKee. I then went to the Globe-Democrat office and told McKee what Megrue had said. He told me he did not wish to visit the hotel to see Megrue, but would like to Meet Him in Some Secluded Spot.

We talked the matter over and agreed upon the corner of Seventh and St. Charles streets as the place of meeting. Megrue refused to leave the hotel. I then went to the place appointed, told McKee of Megrue's decision, and we went to the hotel together, entering at the ladies' entrance, and I introduced McKee to Megrue and left them together. I saw McKee the day after the interview; talked over what Megrue intended to do; was afraid Megrue would do McKee an injury; I told McKee I thought they oughtn't to indict him, as he could be of great use to others who were under indictment at the time. Two or three days after Megrue came here I saw McKee in his office, and went down stairs to have a talk. The room we went into was in the cellar. McKee was very anxious to know whether he was to be indicted or not. He said if he escaped indictment he could be of great service to those who were indicted. McKee asked me how he (Maj. Megrue) felt. I told him I didn't know how he felt, but thought if he was taken before the Grand Jury he would tell all he knew. We talked over Joyce's connection with Megrue. McKee said Joyce thought he was very smart, but he Got Picked Up by Megrue.

We talked about matters, and McKee said the distillers were all good enough till it came to putting up money, and then they weakened. I saw Megrue and McKee together several times afterwards, and we talked the matter over. Our conversation was in regard to the distillers and the indictments. McKee said he was going to Washington, and would get the thing fixed. He asked me if I knew what Megrue was going to testify to before the Grand Jury, and I told him I didn't. I was not under indictment at that time, but was subsequently.

In the cross-examination of this witness they did not question him regarding his interviews or conversations with McKee, but their efforts were mainly confined to attempting to force him to admit that he had perjured himself by swearing to one thing before the Grand Jury and another before the Court, but they drew no direct admissions from him. He did state, however, that during his official term he supposed he that there are four indictments against him for connection with whisky frauds, to two of which he plead guilty. He denied having received any assurances that his testimony in these cases would secure him light punishment.

Megrue Recalled.

C. G. Megrue was recalled and questioned regarding his interview with McKee at the Lindell House in June. He said: When McKee came into my room he sat down and began talking in a general way about the whisky ring, the excitement here pertaining to the Grand Jury and about my indictment. He showed he was considerably excited, and said he felt I had it in my power to save him, and wanted to know if I would do it. I replied that I would have that I was thinking of a course to p... and did not know whether I would ... or not tell anything. McKee s... an unfortunate affair, and ... me, and wanted me to help ... this conversation I had with him before the Grand Jury. I said if I testified to the truth I would say there was a certain amount of money paid to me, and I disbursed it in a certain way, and that I paid John Leavenworth money to be given to him (McKee) and Ford. I said to McKee that I would tell this to the Grand Jury, that I divided the money into five parts, keeping one part for myself, giving one part to Joyce and McDonald. After I had been before the Grand Jury I called at McKee's house, in obedience to a request of his or a promise I had made to him. I told him I had told the truth before the Grand Jury. He didn't make any special reply when I told him this.

In answer to a question whether witness paid any money to John Leavenworth, and directed him to pay it to McKee, Judge Glover objected. He said the counsel for McKee were now at that stage of the proceedings when they were entitled to know if the State had introduced all the testimony they had to prove McKee's connection with the whisky ring. Col. Brodhead said the State might introduce evidence from time to time as it may be developed. The Court asked: "Do you propose to introduce declarations of Leavenworth as one of the conspirators?" Col. Brodhead answered that they did, and proposed to show that money was received by McKee by the declarations of Leavenworth before and after the payment. Upon this point a lengthy argument ensued, the jury having been sent to their hotel, and no more testimony was taken.

FORTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

(FIRST SESSION.)

The Centennial Appropriation Bill Again Discussed.

A Vote to be Taken To-morrow.

WASHINGTON, January 22, 1876.

HOUSE.

The Black Hills.

Mr. STEEL offered a resolution directing the Committee on Appropriations to inquire into the expediency of making any appropriation for the support of the Sioux Indians, and also the right of having white men excluded from the Black Hills country. Adopted.

Cuba.

Mr. WADDELL offered a resolution requesting the President to communicate to the House any communications which may have passed between the Government of the United States and any European Government besides Spain in regard to the island of Cuba. Adopted.

Committees were called for reports of a private character. Very few were made, except from the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

The Centennial.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. Wood, of New York, in the Chair, on the Centennial appropriation bill.

Mr. LAWRENCE spoke in favor of the bill and in reply to the constitutional objections urged against it.

Mr. LAWRENCE supported the bill on the following six grounds: First, Congress was committed to it by the past legislation; second, because it would increase the general welfare by encouraging commerce and intercourse; third, because it would create a demand for American products and would give employment to labor; fourth, because it would aid in restoring prosperity; fifth, because it would promote good will among our own people and among foreign nations, and that would be worth many times over $1,500,000; and sixth, because it would be a good investment and would bring back more than the cost. The Government might save $1,500,000 by refusing the appropriation, but it might lose $100,000,000 by doing so. It was not wise to save at the spigot and lose at the bunghole, and the failure to pass this bill would be saving at the spigot and losing at the bunghole.

The debate was further continued by Messrs. Teese, Jones (Ky.), Morey, Lapham, Dunnell, Monroe and Kasson in favor of the bill, and by Messrs. Baker (Ind.), Caldwell, Savage and Holman against it.

In the course of Mr. HOLMAN'S speech he alluded to the remark of Mr. Tucker in his speech some days ago to the effect that this was not a nation, and said that if there had been anything settled beyond recall in the progress of the century, it was the sovereignty of the people, not the sovereignty of States, and the solid foundation on which the political powers of the Government rested. That fact had not only been solemnly established in the Constitution, but had been reaffirmed on every battle field from the time of the formation of the Government to the present hour. It was a nation. It spoke through its accredited representatives with the voice of a nation, and no argument or reasoning could impair the faith of the people in that fact. He appealed to the gentleman not to characterize the opening of the new century by a subsidy, and he read a letter from a Philadelphia gentleman speaking of the Centennial Board as a ring, and saying that the passage of the bill would damage rather than help the exhibition.

Mr. RANDALL gave an indignant contradiction to the statements in the letter, and said that a purer set of men than the members of the Centennial Board never managed any enterprise.

Mr. KELLEY—And I say Amen to every word my colleague has said.

Mr. HOLMAN—I do not know anything about the truth or falsity of the statements in the letter.

Mr. RANDALL—I know all about it.

Mr. HOLMAN—I merely know that the gentleman who wrote the letter is the peer of either of my friends from Pennsylvania, and is a man whose honor cannot be called in question.

Mr. RANDALL—When we learn his name we will know whether he is our peer or not.

Mr. CLYMER (to Mr. Holman)—Was not the writer of that letter a disappointed applicant for the Superintendency of the Horticultural Department of the Exhibition, and was not that the motive of his letter?

Mr. HOLMAN—I am very certain he was not an applicant for any office.

Mr. RANDALL—Was he an applicant for any place for an opportunity to draw a salary?

Mr. HOLMAN—I am not aware of his having been an applicant for any office, and if the gentlemen expect to carry their bill by denouncing a man who can be vouched for as an honorable gentleman, they are very much mistaken.

Mr. RANDALL—This gentleman has sent a letter here denouncing an entire community.

Mr. KELLEY—He has tarnished his honor by putting falsehood in his letter.

Mr. RANDALL—He has denounced an entire community, and if we expose his motive, it is nothing more than he had a right to expect.

The debate was further continued by Messrs. O'Brien and Townsend (Pa.) in favor of the bill.

The committee rose without taking action on the bill, and Mr. HOPKINS, Chairman of the Select Committee, gave notice that he would call the previous question on the passage of the bill on Tuesday at 3 o'clock.

Mr. PHELPS asked to be and was relieved from further service on the Committee for the District of Columbia, on account of ill health, and Mr. Hardenbaugh was appointed in his place.

The Speaker having referred to an application on the part of members having seats on the outside row to have a screen put up so as to protect them from the interruption of outsiders, the matter was informally discussed. In the course of the discussion Mr. SAYLER remarked that he was a resident of the suburbs [laughter], and knew how great was the annoyance, but for his part he was in favor of having the seats taken out altogether and having benches substituted.

The Speaker suggested that the evil might be remedied by him ceasing to give permits to anybody, and by members generally ceasing going to the doorkeeper and having their friends admitted. If the House was willing that that course should be pursued then it would have peace.

Various suggestions were made and rejected, and no agreement was arrived at on the subject.

The House then adjourned, when the announcement was made that there would be a Republican caucus this evening in the Senate Chamber.

BOSTONIANS IN VIRGINIA.

Presentation of the Banner of Fraternity and Peace.

RICHMOND, January 22.—The reception to the Boston Committee last night took place in the Masonic Lodge room, in the presence of a large crowd of ladies and gentlemen. Governor Kemper extended on the part of the Old Dominion a hearty welcome to the guests, whose presence recalled the time when Virginia and Massachusetts struggled side by side for constitutional liberty. Virginia had never slackened her endeavors, and was as loyal now in trying to establish equal rights and laws to all. Mayor Nieley followed in a few felicitous and eloquent words. General Taliferro, Grand Master of Masons of Virginia, gave fraternal greeting to the guests, and the banner of Fraternity and Peace was unfurled amid loud applause, and was formally presented by the Chairman of the Boston Committee. Souvenirs were presented to the Commandery, and a banquet and ball followed. The visitors left to-day for Columbia, where they will pass Sunday, and on Monday morning will arrive in Charleston.

Two Railroad Accidents.

LONDON, January 22.—A collision of the Scotch express with a mineral train on the Great Northern Railway, near Huntingdon, resulted in the killing of two persons and the wounding of several. Before the wreck could be cleared away the express from London dashed into the debris. A special train conveying doctors has left London for the scene of the collisions.

LONDON, January 23.—The total number of killed in the railway accident near Huntingdon is thirteen. Among the dead is the son of Dion Boucicault.

War Rumors.

LONDON, January 22.—It is reported that Turkey will concentrate a large army in Bulgaria next month, and denied that Russia will mass troops in Western Russia in the spring.

The Proposed Rifle Match.

LONDON, January 22.—The National Rifle Association, at a meeting to-day further resolved that Sir Henry Halford, having been appointed a representative of the Association for the conduct of the proposed match, he be requested to communicate the resolution adopted by the Association to the New York Association, and make all necessary arrangements.

Royal Aquarium Opened.

The Duke of Edinburgh to-day opened the Royal Aquarium at Westminster. The Duchess of Edinburgh was unavoidably prevented attending.

Speech by John Bright.

LONDON, January 23.—John Bright and his colleagues in Parliament, Dixon and Muntz, addressed their constituents in Birmingham last night. Mr. Bright, in his speech, passed over the question of the slave circular issued by the Admiralty. The matter was not as easy as some supposed. He questioned, however, whether it was necessary for the Government to meddle with it. He hoped they would explain that affair and the Suez canal purchase satisfactorily.

Bright confined himself almost entirely to Lord Derley's speech at Edinburgh. He attacked the law of primogeniture and monopolization of land by a few great land holders, and argued that possessors of land should be empowered to bequeath it as they please.

Referring to the future policy of the Liberals, he advocated the assimilation of the county to the borough franchise. He pointed to Birmingham, with 60,000 electors, returning three members of Parliament, while there were seventy members whose united constituencies numbered less than 60,000. Therefore a redistribution of seats was necessary.

Mr. Bright concluded as follows: What I ask you to undertake is to strengthen and confirm your own power by extending your franchise and rights to your fellow countrymen in the counties. Give the freedom you enjoy to those who are now excluded. Give them also freedom of the soil on which they live.

A vote of confidence in the representatives of Birmingham in Parliament was carried by acclamation. Two amendments were moved, one condemning the action of the members in regard to the direct representation of labor, and another denouncing their inaction on the Tichborne question, but the movers were silenced by uproar. Mr. Bright explained that he disapproved of putting up candidates for Parliament as especially representing the working men, because having throughout his career aimed to get rid of classes and to have the people work as one nation, he thought it inopportune, now that the object was attained, to revive class divisions.

The American Note on Cuba.

LONDON, January 24.—The Times to-day reviews Secretary Fish's note on Cuba and circular to European powers. It says the grounds of complaint exclusively refer to the United States and Spain, and third parties cannot participate in the negotiations with any prospect of international advantage. Spain and America must settle their differences for themselves. The risk of loss if either resorts to force is too serious to be rashly insurred. It is possible, however, that the European powers might help to promote a compromise which, while saving the honor of Spain, would end the Cuban difficulty.

The article, after quoting the assertion of the Anti-Slavery Society in their memorial to Lord Derby that Spain is willing to grant Cuba the rights of a self-governing colony on condition that slavery be retained, points to the contrast drawn by Mr. Fish between the British colonial system and the despotic system of Spain, and concludes as follows: "If the two Governments are agreed with regard to the end, there should be little difficulty in devising the means. The slavery question need occasion little controversy. Cuba, with a practically independent Legislature, would soon find abolition necessary. The island would probably be badly governed, but the war would be ended and Cuba allowed to develop her resources."

FRANCE.

The Elections.

PARIS, January 22.—Ex-President Thiers will contest the Deputyship for the Ninth Arrondissement.

The Senatorial delegates have unanimously agreed to support the canditures of Victor Hugo and Louis Blanc. They will meet again on Sunday to finally fix the list.

Plays of the American Revolution.

The awards on plays on the subject of the American Revolution, submitted to Michaelis, were partially announced today. The jury were Victor Hugo, Legouve, Augier, Grenville, Maurray and Perin. The first prize is undecided. The second was divided between the "New World" and "A Great Citizen," two thousand francs to each author. "Free America" took the third prize, 1,000 francs.

The Government of National Defense.

The Committee of Inquiry into the acts of the Government of National Defense have published a reply to the attacks of the Republicans. The official journal reproduces their remarks and says the result of the committee's inquiries should be widely known, so as to convince the people to confide only in those who combat every form of revolution.

War Rumor Denied.

A semi-official note has been published denying the reports of the formation of a French squadron in the Mediterranean and the collection of military stores at Nancy.

Speeches by Gambetta.

LONDON, January 23.—A Times special reviewing Gambetta's speech, delivered in private at Aix, says the speech will force itself on the attention of all France. It is essentially an appeal to conciliation and the programme of the Moderate Republicans. In a speech which is very long, Gambetta says: "We do not want a monopoly." They are too anxious to repair the losses of France to exclude any Frenchman from the task of raising up the country. They must, however, enter the republic honestly.

The American Plays.

PARIS, January 23.—The jury in the Michaelis competition for plays on the subject of the American revolution awarded no first prize, fearing the public would not ratify their decision. The two pieces to which the second prize was awarded the jury agree in pronouncing remarkable works, possessing great merit. That entitled "A Great Citizen" is the joint production of MM. Armand, Artois and Lafille, the latter being the pseudonym of a well-known poet, Francois Coppee. The play "The New World" is by Villiers Liste Adam, and "Free America" by Adolph Michael. A fourth production, entitled "The Patriots," is written by an American, who takes the name of Fernando Armond. It is described as full of movement and life, but deviates from the programme laid down. It is believed it will have great success.

Not Arming.

PARIS, January 23.—A categorical denial is given to the recent rumors that France is increasing her armaments.

Meeting of Senatorial Delegates.

PARIS, January 23.—The second meeting of Senatorial delegates of the Department of the Seine was held to-day. Laboulaye, Thiers, Hugo and Gambetta were present. The meeting failed to complete the list of candidates for the Senate, the Radicals opposing the suggestion of Gambetta and Laheulaye that the list be made to represent the three groups of the Left. A motion made by Gambetta that discussion be adjourned until Wednesday was adopted.

SPAIN.

The Elections.

MADRID, January 22.—Reports from the elections in this city for members of the Cortes indicate that the Ministerialists have secured five districts, while two were Constitutionalist and Progressist respectively. Many Constitutionalist and Republican candidates have retired from the contest. Provincial reports state that the Ministerialist majority is large everywhere.

So far as known, only two Republicans have been elected to the Cortes. Castelar was unsuccessful everywhere.

Bombardment of San Sebastian.

The Carlists severely bombarded San Sebastian on Thursday. Some inhabitants were killed.

A Story Disbelieved.

The story of the Carlist General Tristany having submitted to the Alfonsist authorities is disbelieved at San Sebastian. The persons who submitted were members of the Navarez Carlist Junta.

A Specimen of Electioneering.

MADRID, January 23.—Armed intimidation was used at Arcos, Andalusia, to prevent ex-Minister Rodriquez continuing the candidacy for the Spanish Cortes. The Mayor, sword in hand, threatened Rodriquez's life if he remained. The Liberal papers of Madrid denounce the outrage in the face of a Government decree regulating the press.

Complexion of the New Cortes.

MADRID, January 23.—The Ministerialists have secured a considerable majority in the new Cortes. The minority will consist of about seventy Constitutionalists, Radicals, Moderates, Historicos and others.

TURKEY.

Two Days' Fighting.

LONDON, January 22.—A Ragusa correspondent telegraphs that there has been two days' fighting between Turks and the Herzegovinian insurgents, during which three hundred and eighty of the former were killed. The insurgents lost one hundred killed and wounded. The attack of the insurgents was on the Turkish intrenched position on the hill between Ragusa and Trebinje, whither the Turks had fled after the action of the 18th. One of the breastworks was captured. An inner breastwork was gallantly defended, but evacuated, by fifty survivors during the night of Thursday, and a number of these were killed during the flight. Trebinje is completely demoralized. No troops are moving to relieve the beleaguered, and the insurgents hold the road unmolested. Trebinje is threatened with famine.

Andrassy's Proposals Accepted.

It is reported that the Porte has unofficially accepted Count Andrassy's proposals for the pacification of the disturbed provinces.

Servian War Estimates.

BELGRADE, January 22.—The Skuptschina to-day unanimously adopted the war estimates.

Turkish Troops Concentrating.

RAGUSA, January 23.—The Turkish troops in Herzegovina are concentrating for the purpose of attempting to revictual Trebinje.

Not Assassinated.

LONDON, January 24.—The Standard's Vienna dispatch says the report that Hubmayer, leader of the insurgents in Northwest Bosnia, has been assassinated, is contradicted, but Hubmayer has resigned his command.

Count Andrassy's Note.

The Pester Doyd asserts that not only England, but all the powers, have retained entire freedom of action in regard to events arising after the presentation of Count Andrassy's note to the Porte.

CUBA.

The Work of Destruction.

NEW YORK, January 22.—News has been received here from Havana that a force led by Henry Reeve, 2,500 strong, has invaded Sagna county within a week past, and destroyed Sagna estates, some of which are valued at two millions each. Sagna Lachica, at the mouth of the river of that name, where there were warehouses, with sixteen hundred hogheads of Muscovado sugar, has been burned and all the sugar consumed. The estate Caxo Espino of Senor Nugarica is in possession of the rebels, and of course destroyed. It is located on the south side of the island, whilst Sagna county is on the north shore.

Decrease in Crops.

HAVANA, January 23.—The journals assert that the sugar crop will certainly be thirty per cent. less than last year. They also consider the coming tobacco crop of Vuelta Abajo almost totally destroyed, owing to the drought.

ITALY.

The Pepe Yielding.

ROME, January 22.—The Vatican has decided that it will not resist the inspection of seminaries by Government officials.

Cardinal Antonelli.

LONDON, January 24.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Rome states the gravest anxiety is felt with regard to the health of Cardinal Antonelli. He has had a relapse, which has been very marked within the last forty-eight hours. Immediately before he was taken sick he instructed the Nuncio at Madrid to keep the Spanish Government loyal to the Church in view of the tendencies revealed by the elections.

AUSTRIA.

Serious Illness of a Hungarian Statesman.

LONDON, January 24.—A Vienna dispatch to the Standard says the illness of Oeak, the Hungarian statesman, threatens to terminate fatally. Sacrament and extreme unction have already been administered.

An Army of Observation.

LONDON, January 24.—A Vienna telegram to the Daily News reports an Austrian corps of observation, numbering 50,000, about to be concentrated on the Dalmatian border, ready for emrgencies.

RUSSIA.

The Odessa Merchant Released.

LONDON, January 24.—A dispatch to the News says: Bodsky, the merchant of Odessa, arrested by the Russian police, has been released, but will quit Russia.

GERMANY.

Bismarck.

LONDON, January 23.—A Berlin specia says Bismarck is confined to his room with neuralgia.

CHINA.

The Grosvenor Mission.

HONG KONG, January 23.—The Grosvenor mission has arrived at Ching Kiang in the province of Yunnar.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

A Man Murdered by His Wife's Paramour.

The Culprit Taken from Jail Hanged.

CINCINNATI, January 22.—The Gazette's Barboursville (W. Va.) special says: A young man, named C. F. Meling, has been missing for some time. A search was made to-day, and the body was found buried in a stable, with the throat cut. Meling's wife and a man named Williams, who had been paying her improper attentions, were arrested, and Mrs. Meling confessed that she and Williams had killed him. The excitement is very high.

Later.

CINCINNATI, January 22.—The Gazette's special says Edward Williams, who, with Mrs. Meling, was arrested for the murder of the latter's husband, was taken from jail last night at Barborsville, West Virginia, and hanged by a mob. The parties were assured by a minister that sufficient evidence of their guilt had been obtained, and that the jail was surrounded by a mob of excited people, but both denied any complicity in the act, although the minister continued praying with them and asking a confession. The mob finally forced the keys from the jailor and took Williams out, placed him under a tree in the Court house yard, where with a rope around his neck, and standing on a barrel, he made a confession, and expressed a hope that the crowd might obtain God's forgiveness for their crime as he had for his, and declared he was happily started on his journey home to heaven. He died after fifteen minutes of terrible agony. Mrs. Meling was then brought out, and placing her in front of the dead murderer, the crowd called for her confession. She said Williams had been her paramour for three years, that she had been trying for the last three months to poison her husband without success, that Williams struck Meling on the head with an axe while he was asleep on Wednesday night, and afterwards cutting his throat. She assisted in destroying the evidences of the murder and in burying Meling. She accused herself of being the cause of the murder, but begged pitifully for life. Though the feeling was very strong against her, and the crowd voted unanimously for her execution, no man could be found who would put a rope around a woman's neck, and she was returned to jail. Williams' body was left hanging until cut down by the authorities this morning.

SPECIE RESUMPTION.

Petition from Ohio for the Repeal of the Act.

TOLEDO, OHIO, January 22.—A widespread feeling of distrust of the specie resumption act has culminated within the past few days in an organized movement among business men in a petition to Congress for its repeal. The same has been largely circulated and signed by the foremost business and manufacturing men of the city—bankers, merchants, real estate dealers and federal office holders. The business men generally have placed their names thereto. The petition, which sets forth, in addition to a desire for repeal, that the signers do no not desire inflation, will be forwarded at once to Representative Frank Hurd.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Republican Congressional Caucus.

The Friends of the Centennial Appropriation Confident of Success.

WASHINGTON, January 22, 1876.

The Geneva Award.

The House Judiciary Committee held a secret meeting to-day to hear arguments in behalf of the various interests claiming the right to be admitted to share in the Geneva award. The total of these claims was stated at about $1,200,000.

Republican Caucus.

Senator Sherman was chosen Chairman and Representative Fort Secretary of the Republican caucus this evening. On motion of Senator Edmunds, a committee was appointed to select a suitable name, one from each State and Territory, to compose the Union Republican Congressional Committee, selections to be made after consultation with the Republican delegations from each State and Territory. This committee will report to an adjourned meeting of the caucus. The committee consists of Senators Cragin and West, and Representatives Wheeler, Hunter, Burchard of Illinois, Lynch and Page.

The Consular Service.

By invitation Rev. Dr. Newman was before the House Committee on Expenditures of the State Department to-day, and answered many questions concerning the various consulates he visited, giving the results of his observations of their business. This information was desired in view of the fact that the Consular and Diplomatic appropriation bill is to be reported to the House next week. The committee has also visited the State Department seeking information.

WASHINGTON, January 23, 1876.

Cuban Affairs.

As the President did not on Friday, when he transmitted documents in relation to the affairs between the United States and Spain in the House, deem it proper at this time to include the correspondence between our Government and foreign Governments on the interference question, it is not probable from what can be ascertained that he will furnish the correspondence in compliance with the call of the House made on Saturday.

Pensions of Army Officers.

Several members of the House Committee on Appropriations are looking into the inequalities which prevail in the army relating to retired officers. They say they can see no reason why some officers maimed in the late war should be retired on full rank, with corresponding pay, while others who held as high rank and were similarly maimed or disabled should be receiving only thirty dollars per month. They will make an effort to remedy this inequality, and are also looking into the question of forage to officers who turn over their supplies for private livery.

Economy in the Public Service.

While all the House committees are striving to make large reductions of expenditures in all branches of the public service, and will doubtless so report in all their appropriation bills, it is not probable the House will be seconded by the Senate to the full extent, unless it is plainly made to appear that the public service will be largely benefited by reductions. A large number of members of Congress express themselves opposed to disturbance of the tariff, certainly to any important extent.

Reception by the Spanish Minister.

The Spanish Minister and wife gave a brilliant reception last night. The guests included the diplomatic corps, Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, Secretary Fish and other members of the cabinet, Senators and Representatives in Congress.

The Centennial Appropriation.

The Congressional friends of the Centennial million and a half appropriation bill regard its passage certain, though not by as large a majority as was at first anticipated.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, January 23, 1876.

The Beecher Scandal.

The Sunday Mercury announces that a body of representative Congrationalists is being organized for an investigation of the Beecher scandal, to be composed of the most eminent men in the denomination, and will inquire into the fittness of Beecher to remain recognized as a Congregational minister. The movers are said to be Rev. Dr. Leonard Bacon, of New Haven, Rev. Dr. S. C. Bartlett, of the Chicago Congregational Seminary, and Rev. Dr. Henry M. Dester, of Boston. An extract is published from a letter from Dr. Bartlett, indicating that all sources of knowledge should be freely opened and the investigation be free and ample. Correspondence has been in progress a month, settling the preliminaries, and a call will likely be issued in a few days. About forty churches are on the list of invitation, and each will be asked to send its pastor and a delegate. Plymouth Church will be invited to choose some persons to represent her pastor and conduct his defence. Vital testimony taken on the trial will be read, and the witnesses are likely to be James Redpath, Mrs. Bradshaw, Mrs. Morse, Mrs. Moulton, Miss Florence Tilton, Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, and others. The statement is telegraphed for what it is worth.

A DEFECTIVE BRIDGE.

A Freight Train Precipitated Into a Cincinnati Street—Three Men Killed and Two Injured.

CINCINNATI, January 22.—About 12:30 o'clock this morning a Marietta & Cincinnati freight train was crossing the iron bridge over Spring Grove avenue, this city, when the bridge gave way. Five cars, overloaded with shelled corn, is said to have caused the falling. The cars pulled the engine with them, killing Centry, the engineer, Frank Lemmon, the fireman, and a brakeman. Two men who were driving along the avenue at the time were caught in the wreck, one suffering a broken leg and the other a broken shoulder. The bridge was a double track one, and is a total wreck.

Hebrew Order of Sons of the Covenant.

COLUMBUS, January 23.—The Grand Lodge No. 2 of the Hebrew Order of Sons of the Covenant met here to-day. Representatives were present from lodges in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas and Colorado. Twenty-five Past Presidents were admitted to degrees in the Grand Lodge. After a long discussion the trustees of Harmorial No. 14 of Louisville were sustained in their refusal to pass benefits to the heirs of a brother who was lost on the steamship Schiller. The objection made was that overdue assessments were not tendered to the trustees until after the loss of the steamer was made public. The next meeting and twenty-fifth anniversary will be held in Cincinnati.

Horse Races at Charleston.

CHARLESTON, January 22.—The first race on Washington course to-day was for all ages, three mile heats. Damon won, Mary second. Time 6:08½ and 6:13.

The second event was a hurdle race, two miles, over eight hurdles. Vandal, Jr., was the victor, Busy Bee second, Charley Cheatham third. Oxmore and Babcock's colt threw their riders. Time 4:01.

The third race, for all ages, mile heats, best three in five, was won by Egypt in three straight heats, Prussian second, Ascot third. Time 1:51¼, 1:52 and 1:49.

The forth race, consolation purse, one and one half miles, was won by Marmion, John Payne second, Lavry Hart third. Time 2:44¼.

Cherry Tree, Pa.

January 20, 1876.

The most extensive revival of religion that has taken place in this vicinity for many years is now in progress in the Methodist church in our village, S. F. Crowther pastor. The meetings have been in progress for several weeks. They are now held in the town hall, which is crowded at every service. The altar prepared for the occasion is entirely insufficient to accommodate the penitents who gather around to pray for mercy and seek the grand salvation. The whole town is moved by Gospel thought. It is the topic of conversation wherever two or more are together. The influence is extended into the country in every direction. Our united petition is that the good work may continue until all are saved by grace.

The weather is very mild and rainy, and the roads muddy. Respectfully, C.

BEAVER POLITICS.

Republican County Convention—Col. M. S. Quay Nominated Delegate to the National Convention. Special to the Pittsburgh Gazette.

BEAVER, PA., January 22, 1876.

The Republican County Convention was held here to-day, and was very largely attended. The business before the Convention was the election of a delegate to the National Convention. Col. M. S. Quay was the unanimous choice for the position. He was not instructed for whom to cast his vote as the choice of Beaver.

The Sonora Revolution.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 22.—A dispatch from Tucson, says, regarding the Sonora revolution: On the 6th inst. Sernas' force defeated the State troops under the Secretary of State, who had been to Guaymas for supplies and money, capturing the treasure, arms, &c. Sernas' headquarters are now at Hermosille. Nearly all the neighboring towns have declared for him. The State headquarters are at Aguga, seventy-five miles north of Guaymas, where they have eleven hundred men and will soon march to Guaymas.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 32½f.

GOLD closed in New York Saturday at 113.

THE Democracy hold their State Convention at Lancaster. While they simply elect delegates to their National Convention, we suppose they think they will try a fortunate town to start from. The Republicans held their Convention at Lancaster last year.

IT seems that the Southern rebel to whom we referred the other day, as having named his child JOHN WILKES BOOTH, denies the BOOTH part, and admits the rest, whereupon the Post gives him a half column of sympathetic editorial. Nothing like eulogizing rebels.

A VERY decided and spicy debate occurred in the New York Senate, over the bill to repeal the Gray Nun act,—Republicans favoring the repeal and Democrats opposing. If the bill is practically repealed, as declared by Governor TILDEN in his message, what are they fighting over?

THE exact reason given for the hostility displayed by certain Republican Senators to the confirmation of Attorney General LEAR is, that he had a writ of quo warranto issued, to compel certain parties in Philadelphia to show by what right they built and run certain horse railroads in that city. Hence a savage attack upon him. We greatly mistake Governor HARTRANFT if he does not stand up to his Attorney General.

VERY enthusiastic compliments are being paid the young persons who took part in the "Troubadours" at Library Hall, and a request is likely to be made for the repetition of the performance, the proceeds to go to the Home for the Friendless. At first thought, some of the parents of those engaged in the performances were opposed, but they have learned that the minds of the young, when inspired by benevolent purposes, are fresh and pure.

WE notice, gratefully, the kindly mention made, publicly and privately, of our deceased colleague, Mr. FLEMING. His qualities of head and heart, are widely appreciated, and he will be laid to rest today amid the sincere grief of many friends. His quiet, unostentatious kindness, and uniform gentlemanliness of demeanor endeared him to a wide circle of friends, whose regard for his memory is very earnest and warm. His funeral services will take place to-day at St. Peters, at 1:30 P. M.

THE town of Ashtabula, Ohio, made contiguous to us by the new railroad opened up, shows itself possessed of life, judging from entries and departures of vessels into and from its harbor. Three hundred and ninety-four vessels entered during the year,—115,889 tons of iron ore being brought in, besides miscellaneous articles. Three hundred and sixteen vessels cleared, besides sixty that did not report. 98,558 tons of coal were exported, beside many other items of trade. It is evident that the town is thriving at the present, and that it is destined to attain considerable prominence, in its trade relations, ere long.

MR. COCHRANE has at least gained notoriety by his anti-Exposition speech. The statement made by him that the parties who asked for the million and a half appropriation had previously pledged themselves not to do so, arouses the ire of the Ledger of Philadelphia. It declares that he misapprehends the facts,—that the present Board of Centennial Finance had nothing whatever to do with the pledges made. The Ledger does not deny that the pledges were made, but simply states that the asking party, at the present, is not the party who pledged. Not a very logical or brilliant point, we would say.

THE affairs of the Reform School are undergoing what is equivalent to a judicial investigation, that is so evidently honest and searching, that no doubt need be entertained that the facts will be ultimately elicited. Pending this, we submit that partisan discussion in the press is not at all seemly. When the evidence is all in, a fair estimate of the case can be had. In saying this, we are not seeking to shield any one, as we will probably clearly state what we think of the case when we have all the facts before us. But the same rule should apply in this as in trials before juries, so far as newspaper comments are concerned.

MORMONISM will evidently be a troublesome institution so long as it continues. Yet the problem is, how to be rid of it without doing serious injury to innocent children, born of Mormon concubinage. The subject is before Congress afresh as the result of a bill introduced by Senator CHRISTIANCY, of Michigan, to prevent Mormons serving on juries in cases where their co-religionists are interested. The petition for the admission of Utah as a State, signed, as is believed, by thousands of Mormons under Church influence, also intensifies the feeling in Congress toward that institution. Sooner or later, some plan must be devised to be rid of that institution.

THE correspondence submitted to Congress Friday, discloses very clearly the trifling policy pursued by Spain, as regards our grievances for six years past. This is partially attributable to the changes that have so repeatedly occurred in the ministry of Spain; but is also referable to a disposition to fritter away time, and avoid compliance with treaty obligations. For example the trial of BURRIEL, for his brutal murder of the "Virginius" prisoners could have been ordered at any time, but this has not been done, because of a fear of popular sentiment in Spain. So the sequestration of American estates in Cuba might have been remedied but has been deferred on one pretext or other. Secretary FISH writes very positively to Minister CUSHING that these and other evils, including the continuance of the war in Cuba must cease, or we will be compelled to intervene. Reply is made by Mr. CUSHING, at the last, that the Spanish Minister will promptly correct all abuses, —a promise so often made as to be slightly amusing.

THE rapid accumulation of naval vessels at Port Royal, and the merging of the North and South Atlantic squadrons, under one command, indicates that the authorities regard a conflict with Spain as very probable, to say the least. It is evident, from the forbearance exercised by [illegible] for six years, that it has [illegible] precipitate in its dealings with [illegible]

FISH shows that we have serious grievances against the Spanish Government, because of its lack of faith in several respects. It has not tried BURRIEL, nor restored confiscated estates of Americans in Cuba. The barbarities of the strife in Cuba have not lessened, despite promises frequently made. Our commercial interests have suffered; and thus there are many important reasons why Spain shall be made to know that a change must be promptly had. This correspondence has reached a point where what we demand must be conceded, or intervention take place. As intervention means war, we have the reason for consolidating our naval force near the probable scene of action.

ONE great problem in cheapening transportation is to shorten distance. It is now thought that a canal route has been discovered whereby Western grain can be very cheaply transported East. The route is through the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Bay of Fundy. The project involves the connection of Baie Verte, in the Gulf, with Cumberland Basin, at the head of the Bay of Fundy, by an artificial channel across the isthmus which separates those bodies of water. By the proposed plan the distance from Montreal to St. John and Boston will be shortened some four or five hundred miles, and a line of protected coast navigation secured for the whole distance. It is asserted that propellers of the largest class used on the lakes will descend the St. Lawrence and go directly to our Eastern seaport cities, and there discharge their cargoes, consuming from four to six days less time on the trip than is now required to carry grain to New York by the canals. The freight charges will be, it is estimated, much in favor of grain delivered by the St. Lawrence route. The vessels engaged in this trade will take return cargoes from the New England States, but more especially of coal from the provinces, which, it is said, could be delivered on shipboard for $2.50 a ton. The cost is estimated at $8,500,000, and the popular sentiment is declared to strongly favor the project.

IT is amusing to notice the positive testimony hard money organs ever and anon bear as to the imposibility of reaching resumption by contraction. Thus the New York Tribune says: "A prominent Eastern Democrat criticised Mr. SCHLEICHER's resumption bill on the ground that it ignores the fact that foreign countries will not, and cannot, allow any rapid accumulation of gold in this country. As the legal tender issue is withdrawn and destroyed, as proposed in Mr. SCHLEICHER's bill, its place must be filled either with national bank notes, or with gold and silver. But as the national bank notes would, when the United States reached specie payments, have to be redeemed in gold and silver, since that would be the only medium of redemption left, gold and silver would in any event be required in large measure to fill this place of the greenbacks. This would require the accumulation of coin in this country which would disturb the gold market of Europe. The bank of France, although its paper issues are at par with gold, and it has been accumulating coin for three years in order to obtain a stock of gold on which to resume, has not thus far dared to begin the redemption of its paper lest that very act should so raise the price of coin in other countries as to make the attempt a failure." Yet this is the identical policy that is being urged, of seeking to depress the business of the country, and contract the currency as a means of securing specie payments. Does the game begin to be worth the powder?

CENTENNIAL REMINISCENCES

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

I have pondered deeply on what "P." said the other day in your columns, on the unwillingness of Pennsylvania to advance to public stations such of her citizens as were born beyond her boundaries.

Let me give you the result of that pondering.

FRANKLIN, GALLATIN, MORRIS and STEVENS were all four of them born outside of Pennsylvania. What four of her native-born citizens, in the walks of statesmanship, have rendered her equal service and reflected as much honor upon her? From the list of native Pennsylvania statesmen I cannot make up the number.

Can you? Q.

DREAD OF TAXATION.

Without entering into the merits or demerits of the agitation in Allegheny over the new street improvement bill, we are gratified to notice the disposition to closely investigate all movements which indicate the possibility of increased taxation, which the agitation evinces. It shows that the people have opened their eyes to the fact that bonds mean interest, and interest taxation. Hence, realizing that they must pay the cost of improvements, they are disposed to closely count the cost before they give assent to any fresh outlay of public funds. We have long urged that such an awakening is the great need of our cities; and we even fear that we are not as conscious of the necessity of watchfulness in this city, even now, as we should be, and as they are in Allegheny. It is not necessary that this watchfulness should prove obstructive—preventing all public improvements, but it should seek to limit them to the actual necessities of the case, and secure the cheapest and fairest contracts possible. We half incline, at times, to imagine that the Penn Avenue act has been an injury to the city—not that the improvements made under it were not important, and, in cases, necessary; but that they were done at far greater outlay than was really necessary. The very fact that Commissioners were unrestricted as to their outlays, and that bonds could be issued almost ad infinitum, led to looseness, extravagance and heavy debt. After careful inspection, we are deliberately of the opinion that more than one-half the streets improved under the Penn Avenue act cost far more than the improvement was worth. We are even in doubt whether any street should be excepted from this remark. The Commissioners were generally high-toned gentlemen, personally free from speculation—but not as careful as they should have been in controlling items of cost.

At the inception of the Penn Avenue system of improvements, but little attention was given to the subject, because the people had not yet realized what issuing bonds meant. They were not yet called on to pay increased taxes, and the effects of the panic were not felt. The improvements under the act began, as by magic, on the leading thoroughfares out of the city, and when the blow fell, it came suddenly, with the improvements made or in progress. The same with the Water Works. These were commenced, had progressed considerably before the interest day came round. Thus we had plunged into debt several millions of dollars, before the people generally realized what it meant. When realization came in the form of large tax bills, there were loud complaints,—few apparently realizing that they shared in the responsibility for the debts that were contracted. Whoever may have originated the scheme, or profited by it, the fact remains that had not the people assented, the plans could not have been consummated.

Here, as Governor HARTRANFT recognizes in his message, is the very pith and source of all the corruption that exists in Municipalities. If the people do not watch their own interests there is apt to be some one who will originate schemes to fill his pockets at the public expense. We do not mean to intimate by this that the Allegheny bill is a scheme of the kind, as we are not discussing its merits, and are glad to testify our belief that its officials are not inclined to seek their own advantage, at the expense of the taxpayers. But the fact nevertheless exists, that there are schemers ready to originate plans for contracts, that they may make money. And so long as the people are careless concerning these, they are liable to become involved, before they are aware of it. Hence we strongly commend the watchfulness that determines that no new measures for the outlay of money shall be developed, until they have been carefully investigated, and fully acceded to. And if we may have that alertness, that w[illegible] watch all movements that at all [illegible] an outlay of [illegible] [illegible]blished the only effectual check against the unwise growth of municipal indebtedness.

But while we say this, we do not mean to be understood to favor the cessation of improvements in all cities. We have said, and still say, that so far as Pittsburgh is concerned, when the improvements now in progress are completed, we should begin no more till our present taxation is greatly reduced. As to other cities, their condition and circumstances should be given. There may be improvements that are absolutely needful. Streets often require to be opened and paved—and the growth of population, or the interests of property absolutely require something to be done. But all this refers to specific claims, and not to a general rule. All such claims, of course, stand on their own merits, and can only thus be intelligently discussed. If they are right and proper, and the improvements called for are needed, it is often wise to make them promptly. Yet we hold to the rule that all such things should be very closely investigated before they are entered upon. We are much gratified at the spirit of the Allegheny meeting, and particularly at the fact that the representatives in the Legislature were so cordially sustained, as acting in the case from right motives. They are good men and true, and deserve to be sustained.

HON. E. P. SMITH, late Commissioner of Indian Affairs, has been invited by the American Missionary Association to visit Africa and to inspect the missions of the society in that country, to inquire into the best method of enlarging its work, and to find the most hopeful field for its further missionary operation among the Africans. The trustees of Howard University, have granted him leave of absence for this purpose, without salary, and Mr. Smith will sail in a few days.

His Lucid Explanation.

A Chicago woman, says the Journal, who had been reading about the whisky frauds in the paper, turned to her husband, last evening, and inquired:

"My dear, what do the papers mean by saying that a man has 'squealed?'"

"Why," replied the man, loftily, "they mean that some member of the ring has 'peached' on the rest."

"Peached on the rest?" exclaimed the wife; "now what does that mean?"

"Why, it means that he's—he's blowed on 'em."

"Blowed on them?"

"Yes; you see, he's 'given 'em away.'"

"Given them away?"

"Why, of course? Can't you understand anything? Do you think I'm an unabridged dictionary?" continued the husband, impatiently. "It means he's—he's 'let out on 'em'—'gone back' on his 'pals'—'squealed'—you know?"

The woman did not seem quite satisfied with the man's lucid explanation; but not wishing to appear ignorant in her husband's eyes, she remarked, "Ah, yes; I see!" and forebore further questioning.

Sheridan in Battle.

[From the New York Times.]

Appropos of the cartridges—Major John M. Gould, of the Twenty-ninth Maine, relates that, becoming anxious about the supply, he spurred back to find some, and encountered a wagon with a load of fixed ammunition. He ordered the teamster to take it up to this part of the front and the teamster refused, either out of regard for his own safety or that of his mules. Just at this minute Sheridan rode up, and, with a round oath, asked what was the matter. The Major began to explain, but before he had half finished Sheridan understood the situation, and delivered himself something as follows:

"Now, by ——, you take every —— team and every —— mule, and every —— teamster, and every —— cartridge you can find, and hurry them up to the front, just as —— quick as you can."

With considerable more to the same effect. "And for every one of those oaths," says the Major, dryly, "the army regulations of the United State required him to be fined $1."

Miss Mansfield's Necklace.

You may be interested to know, says the New York correspondent of the Washington Capital, by the way, that the diamonds of Josephine Mansfield were not allowed to shine unseen in New York on New Year's day, although they were not worn by the sumptuous beauty whom they originally adorned. A certain aged Dives of this city has the necklace of the heroine of the Fisk regime in his possession, having advanced $13,000 on the splendid stones to the speculative Miss Mansfield.

For this occasion only he is said to have let the diamonds to a certain lady of Washington, on consideration of $50 for their use. Few of those who visited the mansion whose mistress the diamonds adorned would have imagined that the sparkling circlet she wore about her neck was the gift of the late gallant Colonel of the Ninth to the queenly beauty whose fatal smile shed its light over that rose-strewn path which led to ruin and death.

The Mission of the Hebrew Race.

The Hebrew race are supposed to number from 6,000,000 to 7,000,000, but the Hebrew Leader tells us if we bear in mind the old phrophecy that the descendants of Abraham shall become as numerous as the stars of the heavens and the sands of the sea, it opines the dimensions of Palestine would be found rather too limited and hardly answering all requirements. It doubts, however, whether that land will ever become the home of Israel, despite tradition, for the very reason that the Jews have strengthened in dispersion, and grown under the favorble auspices of civilization to become one of the most important and favorable people on the face of the globle, preserving a distinctive individuality, held together under the most trying and adverse circumstances by a faith firmer than Sinai's mount, from which it was promulgated.

Green Grass Under the Snow.

The work of the sun is slow,
But as sure as heaven we know;
So we'll not forget,
When the skies are wet,
There's green grass under the snow.

When the winds of winter blow,
Waiting like voices of woe,
There are April showers,
And buds and flowers,
And green grass under the snow.

We'll find that it's ever so
In this life's uneven flow;
We've only to wait,
In the face of fate,
For the green grass under the snow.

A Rich Mine.

During the past year 169,307 tons of ore have been extracted from all the levels of the Consolidated Virginia Mine, and 169,694 tons have been reduced, which yielded $16,731,653 in bullion. There are now in the ore house and at the mills 2,988 tons, valued by assay at $478,080. This ore has been taken from the 1,200, 1,300, 1,400, 1,500-foot levels, including a small quantity which has been gathered in the explorations which had been made on the 1,550 foot level.

DR. WHITTIER,
NO. 302 PENN STREET,
PITTSBURGH, PA.,

Continues to afford reliable special treatment in al Private, Nervous and Urinary Diseases.

Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness, resulting from self-abuse or sexual excess, producing nervous debility, night emissions, despondency, dizziness, dimness of sight, pimples on the face, weakness of mind and body, and finally impotency, loss of sexual power, sterility, &c., unfitting the victim for marriage or business, and rendering life miserable, are permanently cured in shortest possible time. Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, all urinary diseases and Syphilis (all forms), consisting of skin eruptions, ulcers, &c., are perfectly cured, and the blood poison thoroughly eradicated from the system. Cures guaranteed.

DR. WHITTIER is a regular graduate of medicine, as his diploma at office shows; his life-long special experience in all private diseases, with purest medicines prepared by himself, enables him to cure difficult cases after others fail—it is self-evident that a physician treating thousands of cases every year acquires great skill. Consultation and correspondence private and free. Pamphlet sent sealed for stamp. Medicines sent everywhere, by mail or express.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, January 24, 1876.

The volume of business at our banks Saturday was quite large, considering the inclemency of the weather. There is, apparently, more stimulus in trade since the opening of the new year, which tells on bank business. Still current collections are reported as difficult to make. Either there is severe tightness as to money matters, among the people generally, or there is a general fear to permit money to go out. It is believed, however, that this condition of things will change very shortly. We heard Saturday of the closing of one of our chimney glass manufactories, owing to the unprofitableness of trade. There is, evidently, closeness as to profits in several departments of business, which is the real trouble. This overcome and there is available capital to start business into fresh activity.

The Belleville Nail Company, a large and long established manufacturing concern of St. Louis, located at Belleville, Ill., failed Friday; liabilities, $300,000; assets, estimated, $150,000.

Mr. C. D. Ashley, Chairman of the Protective Committee of stockholders of the Toledo, Wabash and Western Railway, informs the stockholders that they must, if they desire to prevent the extinction of their rights, pay the contribution of 25 cents per share before the 1st of February. Whatever can be done must certainly be done without delay, as the foreclosure proceedings are steadily advancing.

Two more mercantile failures in New York City; liabilities, $100,000 each.

The mercantile and banking failures in England reported for the year 1875 are in number 1,707, and in liabilities £150,000,000, not counting the smaller bankruptcies of shopkeepers and other retail dealers.

Reviewing the foregoing figures and the depreciation of the now clouded foreign loans, such as Turkish, Peruvian, etc., the London Times concludes that England is £25,000,000, or $125,000,000, worse off now than at the beginning of the year 1875.

While all this was going on among merchants, manufacturers, and foreign borrowers, who have almost hopelessly defaulted, the English railway stocks advanced enormously, some of them as much as 100 per cent., and others 50 or 60 per cent., mainly on the superabundance of money in London. The money writer for the Times has no confidence that the advanced prices will hold after the revival of a healthy and vigorous condition of trade and regular employment for money.

Reports from Utah say that the main shaft of the Emma mine was stopped by the English company at a depth of less than 400 feet, at which point the ore had become too narrow to pay to work. Since the suspension of operations a St. Louis organization known as the Bay City Tunnel Company had started a tunnel into the Emma hill, and this tunnel, at a distance of 1,800 feet from its mouth, had cut a large body of rich talcose ore, carrying several thousand dollars per ton. This ore body is reported as in the correct position to be a continuation in depth of the Emma Mine, and its value is estimated at from $2,000,000 to $10,000,000. The Emma Company, however, will have no right in any part of this bonanza until it proves, by extending its shafts downward, that the ore is within the walls of the Emma vein. In the meantime the Bay City Tunnel Company assumes the ore body to be a new vein to which they are entitled by right of discovery, and they are taking out large amounts of ore. It has for some months been the opinion of experts that the Emma Mine is situated upon an immense ore channel 400 feet in width, running the entire extent of the Cottonwood district, and of indefinite depth.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

DAILY REPORT OF PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, January 22, 1876.

The general position of the leading markets has not varied much recently; trade continues quiet, and presents no new or important features to which reference has not been made. As we have before noted, however, the outlook is improving, and a revival in most departments of trade within the next few weeks is almost assured.

APPLES—Continue to move pretty freely, but at unsatisfactory prices to owners—$1,50a3,50 per barrel, according to quality and condition.

APPLE BUTTER—65a70 per gallon.

BEANS—Market continues very dull; prime navies offered at $1,25 per bushel.

BUTTER—Prime to choice table Butter in light supply and in demand at the advance noted in our last report, but common and medium is plenty and very dull—sales of the former at 28a30c.

CHEESE—Prime Ohio Factory, 13¾a14c; ditto New York, 14a14½c.

CRANBERRIES—$12a13 per bbl.

DRIED FRUIT—Peaches, prime halves, 12a13c; prime bright Apples, sliced, 10a11c; quartered, 9a10c.

DRESSED HOGS—8a8½c.

EGGS—The market continues dull, and overstocked; quotable at 19a20c for fresh. New York advices report that market heavy at 20a23c.

FLOUR—Quiet and unchanged. Spring wheat flours, $6,25a6,50 for Wisconsins, and $6,50a6,75 for Minnesotas; red winters, $6,25a6,75 for new and $7 for choice old. Rye Flour, $5a5,25 per barrel. Buckwheat Flour, 2½a3c per lb.

GROCERIES—Our latest advices from the seaboard report Coffee as having quieted down somewhat, although the market was still reported firm. A Rio telegram, under date of the 19th, reports the stock at 227,000 bags; average daily receipts, 6,000 bags; sales for the United States for the week, 15,000 bags; shipments, 42,000 bags; price, 8-900; market steady. Stocks in first hands are reported as follows: New York, 187,777 bags; Baltimore, 56,357 bags; Hampton Roads, 17,841 bags; Galveston, 4,000 bags; Charleston, 1,500 bags; Savannah, 15,000 bags; Mobile, 8,400 bags; New Orleans, 12,186 bags.

GRAIN—Trade in grain circles continues quiet, and there is little that is really new to record; the demand is mainly to supply immediate necessities, while prices remain unchanged. Penna., Ohio and Indiana red Wheat at $1,20a1,30 for fair to prime and 1,32a1,33 for choice; northwestern red, $1,35a1,38. Penna. and Ohio mixed Oats, 39a40c; do, white, 42a43c. Prime new Corn, either shelled or ear, quotable, on track, at 50a52c for good mixed to prime yellow, and market easy under the influence of increased receipts. Rye quiet at 80a82c.

HAY—Baled is in fair demand, but unchanged; upland prairie, $13a14; timothy, $17a19.

HOMINY—We note a steady demand at $4 per bbl in round lots and $4,25 in a small way.

MILL FEED—Quoted at $13a14 per ton for Bran; $15a17 for Seconds and Shorts, and $20a23 for Middlings and Chopped Feed.

ONIONS—$1,25a1,50 per bbl.

POULTRY — Dressed Chickens, 11a12c; dressed Turkeys, 12a13c per lb. Live Chickens, 50a60c per pair.

POTATOES—Coming in more freely, and market reported dull; Peach Blows, 35a38c per bush., on track; other kinds, 33a35c.

PROVISIONS—The general tone of the market continues easy, but there has been no further change in prices. A Chicago paper of Friday says: The work of packing is proceeding slowly under a light supply of the raw material, the recent bad weather having put the country roads into a bad condition, from which they have not recovered long enough to permit a swelling of the volume of our receipts. And so the packers are still on the anxious seat, as they have been for so long, hope being by this time in the bottom of the box, and the the only thing left there. They have operated this winter under great discouragement, the market being almost constantly against them.

TALLOW—Chandlers Tallow, city rendered, 9⅜a10c; country do., 8⅜a9c.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, January 22, 1876.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Trade, so far as Pittsburgh is concerned, continues unsatisfactory. The refiners feel very sore over the present condition of affairs, and allege that the late combination of the trunk lines has had the effect to crowd Pittsburgh out of the business. It is also asserted that Cleveland and New York, in connection with the railroad companies, are working under the old South Improvement Company's charter. The plan adopted is to gradually increase the freight on refined oil to the seaboard, the railroads in the compact binding themselves to maintain a uniform given rate, and the earnings to be pooled, each road being entitled to a certain division of the money, without any reference to the actual number of barrels carried. In order to perfectly carry out the arrangement, it was seen necessary to consolidate the business as much as possible, and to this end a secret drawback is granted to New York and Clevelond, which enables their refineries to be run at a fair margin, while Pittsburgh and other points not in the ring, are compelled to lie idle.

In view of recent events, the above rumor seems to possess some truth, as a very decided advance in freights to the seaboard from Pittsburgh has taken place during the past three months. The refiners, as a general thing, believe very little in the rumor, but all are unanimous that competing points have a decided advantage over them in way of freights. They give the Pennsylvania Company credit of having more sagacity than to bind themselves up in any arrangement of the kind. What security have they that these "pooling" companies would divide profits, once the refining trade, is lost here. Moreover, the Pennsylvania R. R. Co. is obligated in a measure to pay the principal and interest of certain bonds of Allegheny Valley Road. The oil business heretofore contributed a handsome portion of the earnings of the Valley, and the loss of this income now would certainly be unfortunate—at all events a wrong has been done the trade here, and it may be possible that the railroad companies have been out-generaled by their eastern competitors. It is reasonable to expect that the Pennsylvania Road will see that Pittsburgh receives justice when the true state of affairs is made manifest. The business of refining belongs by right to Pittsburgh, owing to its natural facilities, and when it is considered that vast sums of money are invested in refineries, with an actual refining capacity of 13,000 bbls daily, some relief should be afforded at once. Nothing unreasonable is demanded from the railroads—the refiners simply ask for an equitable rate on crude, and the privilege of receiving it through any channel most advantageous. A fair and just rate is also asked for on refined to the seaboad, and the abolition of the drawback system. For some reason or other, the railroads claim that their rates are uniform to all points, ignoring the fact that the oil producing region is almost at the door of Pittsburgh, and the seaboard some three hundred miles closer than to Cleveland. Those unacquainted with the refining business often ask why the boating of oil is not more extensively carried on, when the oil can be brought down in barges at a mere trifle; also, why not build pipe lines? By the present system of freights nothing is gained by receiving barge oil, or through a pipe line—providing there was a pipe line to Pittsburgh. The railroad companies in order to prevent any competition in crude transportation, established "the rates on Refined Petroleum from the mouth of the pipes in the oil region." After the oil has been refined and shipped to the seaboard, the amount of freight paid the railroad on the crude to the refineries is refunded in the shape of a rebate on refined oil freights. Hence oil, the product of any crude oil received through independent pipe lines or by barges, is not entitled to this drawback. We have before us a daily report of the shipments of crude oil from the oil region, covering the first fifteen days of January. The total shipments aggregate 259,277 bbls, a daily average of 17,285 bbls. Of this amount, Pittsburgh has received but two or three thousand bbls—hardly enough to supply two good sized rolling mills with oil for machine purposes. In reviewing all the facts which have been presented, the situation of the trade, at this point, is certainly in a lamentable condition. The refiners should appoint reliable committee to call upon the railroad officials, and clearly present their greviances, and we venture the assertion that their complaints will not go unheeded.

Following communication, handed to us for publication, speaks for itself:

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Why is it that the only cheap rate of freight on oil is shut out from the refiners of Pittsburgh? They can have their oil brought here in barges for 10 cents per barrel freight, and by rail they have to pay 35 cents, forcing refiners to bring oil by rail by saying that if they buy barge oil they will give them no drawback, and if they bring it in cars will give them 57½ cents drawback. Why not give the refiners of Pittsburgh the benefit of the situation, and give them the same drawback on barge oil that they give on car oil, and by so doing they can increase the business to over double what it is now, and put our refiners on a good sound basis, and it would bring back nearly all we have lost in the last two years, and increase the shipments of refined to over double what they were last year. I say let us have no discrimination, but equal rates, and let us buy our oil where we can the cheapest. REFINER.

CRUDE.

The market to-day was reported quiet, but prices were fully maintained; United certificates, $1,82½; Conduit, $1,82½; Union, $1,83¾; immediate shipment, $2,05; barge oil, delivered here, $2,17½. The general position of the market continues favorable to the producing interest, and unless some new territory is opened up, prices are not likely to be maintained only, but may go still higher.

REFINED.

The market continues very quiet, and notwithstanding the advancing tendency of the raw article, there is not much inquiry, and prices are not much better than they were a week ago. Quotable at 10⅝a10¾c on cars here, and 13¾a14c for Philadelphia delivery.

OIL BARRELS.

There has been a fair business during the past week, but no change in prices; city make quoted at $1,30; countries at $1,15a1,20.

RECEIPTS AND SHIPMENTS.

Receipts of Crude during the past week, 1,564 barrels; January 1st to date, 5,210 barrels; same time, 1875, 26,247 barrels; shipments refined during the week, none; last week, 5,115 bbls; from January first to date, 5,779 bbls.; same time, 1875, 9,595 bbls.

PITTSBURGH LIVE STOCK MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, January 22, 1876.

The arrivals for the week ending at noon to-day were as follows, and, in order to afford a comparison, we append those of preceding week also:

ARRIVALS.

	This week.	Last week.
Cattle	414 cars.	231 cars.
Hogs	126 "	234 "
Sheep	79 "	86 "
Total	619 "	551 "

CATTLE.

There has not been much done since Thursday, nor was it to be expected, as the great proportion of the receipts were through consignments, and furthermore, as a rule, there are rarely any buyers here after the day above mentioned. The market however, from Monday up until the close, on Thursday, was, without doubt, one of the hardest sellers have experienced for some time; prices declined from ⅜ to ½ of a cent per lb, and, even at the decline, the supply was in excess of the demand—some 40 or 50 cars having been shipped on in first hands. The advance of last week was entirely lost, both here and in New York and all other grades are as low, at this writing, as they were during the holiday season. As noted in our last report, it was generally expected that the sharp advance would stimulate shipments, but the arrivals have been much larger than was expected, as was also the decline in prices.

Quotations may be fairly given at 6,25a6,35 for choice beeves; 6 for prime; 5,50a5,75 for good; 4a5 for common to fair. Bulls declined from 50a75 cents per cwt. There were a few choice sold early in the week at 6,50, but the same cattle, subsequently, there is every reason to believe, could not have been sold for the same money.

Of the 414 cars reported for the week, 167 cars were through consignments and 247 cars yard cattle, against 63 cars of the former and 168 cars of the latter last week. Sales for the week, 3,422 head; last week, 2,901.

The profits made in the strong and rising markets last week are likely to be balanced by the losses of this week. The assurances given out, semi-officially, that live stock rates were to be the same for all shippers after January 15th, with no drawbacks or other special gratuities to favored operators, have encouraged the hope that the cattle ring would be broken, and that the practice of holding back stock to make a scarcity and then of rushing it forward to create a glut—all in the interest of speculation and at the cost of the butchers and the consumers—would be no longer possible. With transportation from the West open to all at equal rates the extraordinary fluctuation in prices witnessed here during the last ten days could not have occurred.

HOGS.

The run was comparatively light, 106 cars less than that of last week, but in consequence of the soft weather which prevailed during the greater part of the week, trade was not as brisk as it should have been, or usually is under existing circumstances. Indeed, during the first half of the week, prices were down almost as low as they have been at any time yet; from Wednesday up until to-day there was an advance of from 10a15c per cwt, with only a fair degree of activity. Philadelphia hogs, of which there were few changed hands today, quotable at 7,50a7,60, and Yorkers at 7,20a7,30, with the pens pretty well cleared.

SHEEP.

The run was somewhat less than last week, but with less favorable reports from the east, trade opened rather sluggish and dragged nearly all the way through, although the feeling was rather better today, in consequence of more encouraging advices from New York yesterday. There has been no quotable change in prices, as compared with last week, but had it not been for the decreased receipts, a decline would have been inevitable. Extra 100a120 lb. sheep, 6a6,50; prime 90a95 lbs., 5,50a5,75; good 80a85 lbs., 5a5,25; fair 70a75 lbs, 4,50a4,75; common, same weight, 3,75a4; Indianas, according to weight and quality, 4a6c.

INDIANAPOLIS, January 22.—Hogs unchanged; receipts 1,605.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, January 22.—There was a fair movement in prints, cambrics and cotton hosiery, but the general market was quiet. Cotton goods were in moderate request, and leading makes of brown and bleached goods were firmly held. Cottonades were in fair demand. Cloths and doeskins were quiet, but cassimeres in steady demand. Printed satinets are moving in fair quantities. Foreign goods are very dul.

Wool.

BOSTON, January 22.—The demand has been rather limited, the market being quiet, with no change in prices; holders are indifferent about selling; Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces X and XX 45a48c; medium and No. 1 at 48a50c; XXX and picklock 50a55c; Michigan fleeces 42a43c for X; Wisconsin fleeces 42a43c; entire sales of fleece wool has been only 127,800 pounds. Pulled wools: good supers and X meet with fair demand; low grades are very dull.

Chicago Seed Market.

Timothy and Clover were both in good request and a shade firmer, but the offerings being meager only a limited amount of business was transacted. Sales of the former mentioned seed were made at $2,40a2,42½ for fair, and for prime $2,45 was bid, with holders asking $2,50. Fair medium clover sold before 'Change at $7,85, but during the regular session $7,90a8 was paid for good to prime. Flax was in better supply, but the demand was good and former prices were maintained. Sales were made at $1,40a1,50 for fair to prime. A sale of only fair millet was reported at 50c, but prime was quotable at about 55c. Hungarian quotable at 45a55c, and buckwheat at 60a70c for fair to good. For lots from store dealers generally obtained 5a10c over the above quotations.

December Corn Contracts.

A case was brought before the Arbitration Committee a few days ago involving the non-delivery of ten thousand bushels of No. 2 corn seller December. After hearing the evidence the Committee decided on 52c as an equitable figure for the adjustment of the contract. The decision being rather unsatisfactory to one of the parties, the case was referred to the Committee of Appeals, which finally confirmed the previous decision of the Arbitration Committee and fixed the price at 52c.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

L. A. WELSH, Sergeant, Signal Service, U. S. A.

THE stage of water last evening was 8 feet 10 inches, and about stationary; as there was considerable rain on Saturday, another rise is not improbable, although there is now sufficient water for all purposes. With the exception of about a week, navigation has been uninterrupted since early in the fall, and most of the time there was plenty of water for running coal.

THE Market Boy, from Wheeling, arrived and departed on Saturday.

THE Coal Valley, with eight empty barges, arrived on Saturday.

THE J. N. Camden arrived from Parkersburg with a tow of empty oil barges.

THE E. H. Durfee, from St. Louis, should arrive here during the latter part of the week.

THE Exchange, arrived from Cincinnati on Saturday evening, and will load for a return trip forthwith.

THE United States Marshal will sell the steam ferryboat Bessie Pearl, at Dayton, Ky., on the 29th inst.

THE Emma Graham left Cincinnati for this port on Saturday, and will leave here on time Wednesday afternoon.

THE John L. Rhoads, Capt. J. M. Vandergrift, is announced for St. Louis forthwith, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind.

THE Handy was libeled at Cincinnati, on Thursday, for carrying gunpowder and passengers at the same time, contrary to law. Her owner, Pennywitt, went on her bond, and she was released.

THE Salt Valley, Capt. Sanford, is the regular packet for Ironton to-day, leaving promptly at 3 P. M. In addition to giving close attention to way business, she will receipt through to Cincinnati and Louisville.

A MEMPHIS dispatch, of Thursday, says: The Kittie Hegler is on her way out of Arkansas river for New Orleans, with over 2,000 bales of cotton. The Fontenelle had to unload every bale of her cargo before getting off from where she grounded. The Ashland has gone to Fort Smith.

A MEMPHIS paper, of Wednesday, says: A case involving between $35,000 and $50,000 is on trial before the United States Court and a jury, now sitting in this city. The plaintiffs are Riddle, Coleman & Co., of Pittsburgh, now represented here by Capt. W. S. Packer, against General G. J. Pillow, Thomas Peters and J. J. Murphy. In May, 1861, Messrs. Riddle, Coleman & Co., had in the port of Memphis some thirteen barges and eight or ten boats loaded with coal, also 125,000 bushels of coal in yards, together with the tug Gordon Grant and other property, which, it is alleged, was taken military possession of by order of General Pillow, then commanding this military district under State authority. The plaintiffs brought suit some time since, alleging that on the 21st day of May, 1861, Tennessee was still one of the United States, and that she did not secede until some months later. At a former trial a judgment for $35,000 was awarded the plaintiffs, but a new trial being granted it is again in course of ventilation, as related. The evidence for the plaintiffs was all in yesterday.

Corner Penn avenue and Sixth street. Open day and evening. Students received at any time. For terms call on or address J. C. SMITH, A. M. Principal.

Sale of Valuable Property.

On Saturday the valuable property fronting 24 feet on Smithfield street, running back 60 feet, now occupied by Dr. Smith as a drug store, was sold at auction sale to Mr. Murtland for the sum of $18,069, just $4,000 less than he offered for it three years ago.

Raised Bills.

A girl about sixteen years old, and a boy about twelve have been engaged for several days in passing $1 greenbacks raised to $10 by pasting the figure 10 from cigar box stamps over the 1 on the face of the note, no other alteration being made. The pasting is very clumsily done, and deceives none but a very superficial observer, or one who cannot read. Still it is understood that a large number have been passed in the suburban stores.

G. A. R. Encampment.

The State Encampment of the G. A. R. of Pennsylvania commences in Pittsburgh on Wednesday. In the evening a public meeting will be held at the Academy of Music, to which a general invitation to be present is extended to all outsiders. Judge Collier will deliver the address of welcome and will be responded to by Major A. Wilson Norris. Captain Arms will deliver the oration, and Col. Realf will read a poem. The music will be furnished by the G. A. R. glee club and the St. Cecelia band. At the close of the meeting a banquet will be given at the Union Depot Hotel.

The South Side Coffin Case.

A hearing was had on Saturday before 'Squire Heisel, of one of the charges against Mr. Hamilton, who is accused of sending the coffined rag baby to the young lady on the South Side. The charge was malicious mischief. This was not sustained, and the defendant was dismissed from custody. He was immediately re-arrested, however, on a charge of libel. The hearing in this case was postponed until Wednesday afternoon. It is said the affair does not look nearly so serious as at first. There was no obscene writing on the cross. It is also stated that Mr. Hamilton had been annoyed himself almost beyond endurance. Wednesday's hearing, however, will develop all the facts.

CAN SUCH THINGS BE?

The Duquesne Greys Making a Bonanza Out of Old City Hall.

The general impression among Councilmen and those who take an interest in the matter is, when the Duquesne Greys sublet old City Hall and receive compensation therefor, that the city gets a portion of the proceeds. A member of Select Council dropped a few remarks on Saturday in Municipal Hall which had the effect of disabusing the mind of the writer of any such idea. He said that the Greys rent the hall to other parties, are paid for it, then report to the city authorities that they granted the use of it free. As an instance, the recent Poultry Exhibition was cited, the managers of which, the gentleman said, paid the Greys $200, none of which, it is alleged, has yet found its way into the City Treasury. The Councilman also stated that the poultry show was only a repetition of the Homeopathic Fair, the Clipper boat club ball, the Orphan Asylum Fair, and other recent enterprises, the managers of which assisted in swelling the exchequer of the military organization of which Pittsburgh is so vain. The writer well remembers that the express condition on which the Market Committee granted the Duquesne Greys permission to sub-let Old City Hall was that the profits arising from such lease should be equally divided between the Greys and the municipality. If that agreement is being violated and the corporation wronged, it is about time for the city to know something about it.

WOMANS' WORK.

Eighth Anniversary of the Women's Christian Association.

The eighth anniversary of the Women's Christian Association of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, was held in St. Andrew's church last night. Rev. Reese F. Alsop conducted the proceedings, and after an organ voluntary he prayed long and fervently. The hymn "The Lord is my Shepherd," was sung by the choir, and Mr. T. J. Gillespie read the report of the Secretary and Treasurer. The report embraced brief descriptions of the auxiliaries of the Womans' Christian Association. These auxiliaries are as follows: The Home for Destitute Women; the Home for Aged Protestant Women; the Boarding Home for Working Women; the Gilmore Mission and Industrial School; the Zenana Mission; the Sheltering Arms; the Ladies Depository and Employment office; the Bible readers work; the Hospital Committee; and the Young Men's Christian Association of East Liberty. The annual reports of all these sub-associations have already been published, and in their recapitulation last night no new facts were developed. Following the reading of the report the choir sang "The Sun of My Soul," and an address was delivered by Rev. S. R. Frazier. In conclusion he appealed to the audience to assist the Association which was at present in need, as the Secretary had said, and urged upon them the necessity of impressing the Christian people of this and the sister city with the necessity of supporting the great work that the philanthropic women of this Society were now engaged in. After the address a collection was taken; the hymn "Blest be the Tie" was sung, the Doxology followed, and after a prayer and Benediction the meeting dissolved.

The annual meeting of the Association will be held next Thursday.

DOWN WITH TRAMPS.

Result of the Deliberations of the Altoona Convention.

[illegible] list of the Act of Assembly prepared [illegible] Altoona Convention of Poor Boards for the suppression of tramps, and which has met with the unqualified approval of the Tramp Committee of the Legislature, is as follows: It provides that if any person shall be found begging in the Commonwealth, he or she may be arrested at the request of a citizen and taken before a magistrate, and if the defendant is proven to be a vagrant on his or her own confession or in the view of the magistrate, or comes within the description of the vagrant act of 1836, such vagrant shall be committed to labor, for a term not less than thirty days nor more than six months to the Workhouse, Poorhouse, House of Correction or jail. Whenever in the judgment of the custodian of the institution in which such vagrants are confined, suitable labor cannot there be provided, he shall have power to bind them out to hard labor at any other place or any other person or corporation, and may compel the performance of labor for the term for which they have been committed. It is also provided that should any person who is away from home make application for assistance to reach home, the overseers, County Commissioners, or Directors of the Poor may bind him out to labor and give him the earnings to pay his expenses, increasing the amount, if necessary, to a sum not exceeding twenty dollars. The custodian of the institution where the tramps are committed, can, at discretion, discharge them within the term of their commitment, upon not less than ten days good behavior or upon satisfactory security that the party discharged will not become a charge upon the public within one year from the date of discharge. The Poor Directors or County Commissioners are authorized to put up buildings for carrying out the provisions of the act if necessary. Any constable or policeman who refuses to arrest a tramp when called upon to do so subjects himself to a fine of ten dollars. The last section declares that nothing in the act shall be considered as repealing the 32d section of the act of June 13, 1846, declaring what persons shall be deemed vagrants.

PROSPECTING FOR PLUNDER.

A Saturday Night Assault on Duquesne Way—Painful Injuries Inflicted.

Duquesne Way, between the Hand street and Railroad bridges is, about "the witching hour of night when churchyards yawn," as ugly and dangerous a locality as the foot of daring man need wish to tread. Archy Taylor, the well-known colored night soiler, wandered into that dark and gloomy vicinity shortly before ten o'clock on Saturday night, and he met with a reception that made him fondly wish himself safe in the bosom of his family. He was in company with another person, a young man whom he knew but slightly. They were going toward the railroad bridge, and had reached the metal yard between Bidwell's warehouse and Brown's mill, when two men jumped from behind a lumber pile, and attacked them with weapons. Archy's companion lost no time in seeking more comfortable quarters. This desertion left Taylor to contend with his assailants single-handed and alone. He fought them nobly, at the same time vigorously yelling for help. It came in the person of a man who was at work by the light of a torch, securing the fastings of a coal float at the river's edge, just above the house of the Blackmore Boat Club. He grabbed his torch and started on a run to answer Taylor's call for assistance. Seeing the approaching light the villains fled before their purpose of robbery had been accomplished, but not until they had succeeded in inflicting a number of very painful wounds on their victim's head. They had beat him with a stone or instrument of some kind and the cuts bled profusely, the gore running all over his garments and giving him a frightful appearance. He was not so badly hurt, however, as to prevent him from walking to his home in the Third ward, Allegheny, where his wounds were attended to. The man who went to Taylor's assistance says that but a few minutes before he heard the cries for help two men passed the apron of the float on which he was engaged, and it is probable that they are the parties who attacked Taylor. The latter it is said had quite a large sum of money which the robbers would have got had they not failed in their object.

Housekeepers would find their Biscuit, Cakes, &c., much improved by using Marvin's Self-Raising flour, in place of ordinary [illegible]

Court Brevities.

THE first sale under a writ of leviri facias issued by the Orphans' Court was made by the Sheriff a few days ago, and the report to the Court made on Saturday.

THE School Board of Wilkins township, having decided to levy a tax for the support of the schools in that township, the rule issued on them by Judge Sterrett to show cause why they should not make the levy was yesterday dismissed.

THE application for a permanent injunction against A. H. Rowand et al., to restrain them from issuing bonds for the erection of a town hall in Verona borough was argued Saturday, and the decision of Court was reserved. In the meantime the temporary injunction stands.

A WRIT of quo warranto was issued yesterday by the Common Pleas No. 1, requiring John J. Walker to show by what authority he holds the office of Alderman in what was formerly the Thirty-seventh ward. On the third of February, 1875, he was elected Alderman of the ward, and in March commissioned by the Governor. The Common Pleas No 2 declared the ward out of the city, and the Supreme Court affirmed the decision. There are two Justices of the Peace in Wilkins' township, and it is claimed that Alderman Walker is not entitled to hold the office. The writ was issued at the instance of the Attorney General of the State.

A BILL in equity was filed in the Common Pleas Court No. 1 yesterday by Jared M. Brush et al. against Rev. A. J. Rich et ux. The defendants occupy a piece of property at Brushton Station, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, adjoining that of plaintiffs. During the winter the defendants dam up the outlet to a large spring on their property in order to make a pond from which to gether ice. There is an embankment between the plaintiffs' and defendants' property, but still the water soaks through and covers much of the plaintiffs' land, to the great injury of its saleable properties. An injunction is therefore asked for to restrain defendants from maintaining the dam.

····The Western Penitentiary now accommodates five hundred and seventy-seven prisoners.

····The wagons of the Chief and Assistant Engineers of the Fire Department have had gongs attached to them.

····The room of Michael Landis, in the rear of No. 130 Third avenue, was robbed on Saturday morning of $60.

····Chess, Smythe & Co.'s nail and tack works will resume operations in full today. The mill will run on double turn.

····Two members of the city fire department were suspended on Saturday for four months for insubordination and drunkenness.

····"Jin mill" is the way the McKeesport Times spells it. One so familiar with it should understand its orthography better.

····The dwelling of C. Grim, on Pearl street, in the Sixteenth ward, was relieved on Saturday of a silver watch and twenty dollars in money.

····There were nine cases before Mayor Phillips yesterday morning. John Lenkard was sent to the Workhouse for six months for vagrancy.

····On Saturday Deputy Mayor Hoerr, of the South Side, sent James Fenton to Claremont for thirty days for boisterous conduct on the streets the night previous.

····The American Iron Works are running only four days in the week, except the polishing mill, which is obliged to operate constantly to supply the demand.

····The telegraph lines along the Pennsylvania Railroad are being inspected by the General Superintendent assisted by Division Superintendents and operatives.

····A New York Insurance company it is said has decided to send $1,500,000 to this city to invest in mortgages on first class real estate. We dont insure the information.

····It is now definitely and positively stated that Father Twigg has not been appointed to the bishopric of the new diocese to be made of Mifflin, Blair, Huntingdon, Bedford and other counties.

····An intoxicated man attempted to commit suicide yesterday afternoon on Ross street, near the Second avenue park, by cutting his throat with a carving knife. He was prevented and arrested.

····The hearing in the case of the glazier, Rosenblatt, who is suspected of having stolen property in his possession, has been postponed until next Saturday afternoon at four o'clock by Mayor Phillips.

····The Sheriffs of Cairo, Illinois, and Hoboken, N. J., passed through Pittsburgh on Saturday on their way to the former place with a notoriyus desperado in custody whom they had captured at Hoboken.

····The Third Presbyterian church people turned out well yesterday to hear Rev. De Witt, and from what we learn they were well pleased with him. He has not signified whether he will accept the call or not.

····On Saturday afternoon a little girl named Grace Miller fell down stairs at her home on Evans alley, near Locust street, Allegheny, and fractured one of her arms. Medical aid was summoned and the fracture reduced.

····The contractors on the Pittsburgh and Northwestern Railroad have many more applications for work from unemployed men than they can possibly accept. The men hang around waiting eagerly for the first job they can get.

····On Friday Detective Miller, of Allegheny, arrested George Eislager on a charge of stealing a horse from the stable of Henry Coleman, an East Liberty livery stable keeper, in August last. Eislager was committed by Mayor Phillips.

····On Saturday evening some one threw a large lump of coal at two young ladies who were setting in a parlor on Craig street, Allegheny, but fortunately it struck the window frame, and was thus deflected from its course. The windows were smashed.

····The report that the body of Miss Palling was exhumed one day last week for the purpose of holding a post mortem examination, was not altogether correct. The remains have never been interred, but are still in the receiving vault of the Roman Catholic cemetery, near Mt. Oliver.

····A hearing was had before the Mayor on Saturday in the case of Joseph Brown, who was charged with committing a felonious assault and battery about ten days ago in Temperanceville on John Williams. The defendant was held in his own recognizance for trial, there being a serious doubt as to whether Brown hadn't been pretty badly used by the other party first.

····The congregation at the Central Presbyterian church, Rev. W. H. Gill, pastor, at the corner of Anderson and Lacock streets, Allegheny, yesterday morning subscribed within $175 of enough money to wipe out their entire indebtedness, which amounted to but $1,500. Of that sum two gentlemen subscribed $400 each. The balance, it is thought, can be secured within a few days.

····On Saturday evening a delegate meeting of the proposed amalgamated union of heaters, rollers, puddlers, nailors and roughers was held at Red Men's Hall, on Fifth avenue. The discussion developed a strong feeling in favor of the general union, but without taking final action the meeting adjourned, to reassemble in the heaters and rollers' hall, Germania bank building, on Saturday, February 5th, at seven o'clock P. M.

····Hon. R. B. Carnahan, it is said, has been retained by interested stockholders to file a bill in equity in their behalf against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to compel a cancellation of the $2,500,000 mortgage executed to secure the loan on the P., W. & B. R. R., and also to cancel the lease under which the B. & O. are now operating the Connellsville branch. A thousand or more shares of stock are held by the protestors, who object to being swallowed.

····The Altoona Convention of Boards of Poor Directors complimented Mr. R. D. McGonnigle, Secretary of the Allegheny Poor Board, by unanimously adopting the following resolution: Resolved, That the thanks of every district in the Commonwealth, every suffering poor and indigent family, and especially the thanks of this Convention are eminently due and are hereby heartily accorded to Robert D. McGonnigle, Esq., for his earnest, indefatigable and successful labors in originating, calling together and carrying forward this Convention, the influences of which will mark a new era in the administration of alms houses, etc.

"Charles Dickens in His Study at Gadshill," which is offered, under special terms, to every subscriber—in advance—to APPLETON'S JOURNAL for 1876.

This steel engraving is in line and stipple. It is not a fancy picture, but an actual representation of Charles Dickens' study at Gadshill, while the portrait of the distinguished author is strikingly faithful.

The size of the plate is 20x14, printed on heavy plate paper 24x30, making a large and handsome engraving for the parlor or library wall. The execution of the plate is of a superior order.

The ordinary price of a steel engraving of this character in the print-shops would not be less than five, and perhaps six dollars. It is offered exclusively to subscribers, in addition to the JOURNAL for one year, for $5.00—that is, for $1.00 additional, each yearly advance subscriber to the JOURNAL for 1876 may receive a superb engraving worth fully five times the amount.

This engraving is entirely new. It has never been for sale in the print-shops, and cannot be obtained except in connection with APPLETON'S JOURNAL upon the terms and conditions given above. It will be mailed to subscribers postage pre-paid.

The Leading Tonic and Corrective of the Age.

Its purity, remarkable efficacy in obviating digestive weakness or irregularity, the promptitude and certainty with which it supplies vigor to the strengthless, its tranquilizing effect upon the brain and nerves, and finally, its adoption by the medical profession as a means of strengthening and regulating the vital forces, justly entitled Adolpho Wolfe's Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps to be regarded as the leading tonic and corrective of the age.

AMUSEMENTS.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

Maggie Mitchell opens her engagement this evening in "Little Barefoot." She will appear as Amry, supported by a large and excellent company of her own, which includes Wm. Harris, who will enact the part of William Peace, the same character in which he supported her here last winter. A matinee will be given on Wednesday afternoon.

Library Hall.

It should not be forgotten that Father Gerdemann, of Philadelphia, an ex-Priest of the Roman Catholic church, lectures this evening on "The Romish Church of Today." An effort has been made to prejudice the public against him. Letters have been sent to the city papers abusing him, but none were favored with publication. This will add still greater interest to what he may have to say. The admission is fifty cents. Tickets can be bought at Library Hall ticket office at any time after ten o'clock this morning.

Trimble's Varieties.

No place of amusement offers better or greater attractions this week than Trimble's. Under the new Directorship it has become more popular than ever, and that is saying a good deal when it is remembered that it was always a favorite variety theater, and one where it was thought but little improvement could be effected. For this evening we find underlined Surline the woman fish, Watson, the man fish, the Stewart sisters, Frank Mara, Bertie Rheinhart and others.

Fiat Justitia.

A writer in one of the Sunday papers complains that the writer of the GAZETTE'S account of the Charity Concert got Miss Wallace and Miss Colville mixed, and therefore intimates that the writer was not present. He most certainly was from the commencement to the close of the entertainment. The error made in stating wrongly the performances in which Miss Wallace and Miss Colville took part arose from the fact that he was not acquainted with the personal appearance of either of the ladies. Consequently they not singing according to the published programme, he was naturally led into the error. With the exception of transposing the names of Miss Wallace and Miss Colville, the writer is satisfied to let the criticism stand as it was published, (barring two or three very glaring typographical errors.)

Musical and Dramatic.

PRESS MEETING.

Resolutions of Respect in Reference to the Death of Mr. Fleming.

The members of the city press held a meeting on Saturday evening, at the Chronicle office, to take suitable action in reference to the death of David L. Fleming, one of the proprietors of this paper. A committee on resolutions was appointed, and after retiring returned and presented the following report, which was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, We have learned with profound sorrow of the sudden demise of our esteemed friend and late associate in editorial labors, Mr. David L. Fleming; and

WHEREAS, We have assembled to express in some degree our appreciation of his worth and character; therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Fleming the profession has lost a member who, in all the relations of life, discharged his duties and obligations with the strictest fidelity. As a printer he was thoroughly skilled, and as an editor and manager he displayed talents of a high order. In his social intercourse he was courteous and affable and won the good will and esteem of all with whom he had professional or business relations. In the family and in the church he exhibited the same fidelity to duty which characterized his professional life, and he leaves behind him the priceless legacy of a pure and unsullied reputation.

Resolved, That we tender our sincere sympathies and condolence to the bereaved family of our departed friend and brother.

Resolved, That the members of the press attend the funeral in a body, and that a copy of these resolutions be suitably prepared for presentation to the family.

The resolutions were adopted and the meeting adjourned.

ALLEGHENY BURGLARIES.

The Latest Additions to the List.

The following are the latest reports of the doings of Allegheny burglaries: About one o'clock yesterday morning officer Atkinson saw a man following two others on Ohio street, and upon inquiring what was wrong the man replied that the two men had attempted to break into his cigar store. The officer at once attempted to arrest them, but they ran down the street and he chased them to the foot of Troy Hill, where he captured one of them. On removing him to the lock-up he gave his name as George Siefert. Soon after Lieut. Smith brought in the other one, who gave the name of John Kreibel. Mr. Joseph Podany, the owner of the cigar store, said that they had first tried to get into the rear portion of the house and were driven away. About half an hour afterwards they broke off the bar holding fast the front window shutters, and it was then he drove them off when he met the officer. The prisoners claim that they wanted to purchase some cigars and did not know that the store was closed. They will have a hearing to-day.

Yesterday afternoon a man forced open the front door of a house on Brady street in the Sixth ward and entered the house, but fortunately he was discovered before he could steal anything, and driven off.

On Saturday evening a man entered James Gailey's grocery store on Franklin street and desired change for a [illegible]-dollar bill. The change was counted out to him on the counter, when he suddenly snatched at the money and ran out. He failed to get the change and only carried off his own bill.

Scientific and Biblical Truth.

Prof. Tayler Lewis, in a letter published in the New York Tribune on Saturday, continues his argument to prove that there is a "polar opposition" between modern theories of science and the truths of the Bible. The greater part of his letter discusses the question whether the evolution theory is compatible with a belief in a personal God, whose active will at present controls all things. Prof. Lewis insists that a God who simply set the machine of the universe in motion, or called it into being ready to move itself, and then and there left it forever to work out its destiny according to the laws impressed upon it, is not at all the God of the Bible; and belief in such a far-off deity is barely one remove from atheism. In this branch of the argument Prof. Lewis is strong. But it proceeds on the assumption that such a deity is the God of the evolutionist; and while this may be the fact in some instances, it is not true of all or nearly all the believers in the modern theories of science.

To the second branch of what Professor Lewis calls the "polar opposition," he has given comparatively few words, but they are remarkable. He flatly refuses the concession to science that the first man, the Adam of our race, was the result of anything but a special creation; was made by anything less than a separate act of God. On this point he declares that Christianity must stand or fall.

Alaska Seal Trade.

While investigations are the order of the day, it may not be amiss for a few Congressmen to look into the Alaska seal business. The seal trade of that country is leased to a company, with exclusive privileges, for twenty years, and it is rumored that the company is making millions, while it pays the Government but $300,000 a year for its prerogative. It is, moreover, asserted that the trade is conducted in an illegitimate manner, great numbers of animals being uselessly slaughtered, and thus the danger is incurred of destroying the breed. It is well known that, by needless massacre, the number of seals in the North Atlantic has been greatly diminished, and whales have become [illegible] extinct, and if the like result follows in the North Pacific, the Alaska Seal Fur Company will be largely to blame.

Cameron's African Discoveries.

From Africa, by way of Madeira, these are the results of Lieutenant Cameron's expedition, undertaken with a view of following up the explorations of the late Dr. Livingstone. It seems that this comparatively young and undoubtedly energetic traveler has traversed the breadth of the African Continent, from Zanzibar on the eastern coast, to Angola, a large river flowing in a southwesterly direction out of Lake Tanganika (visited by Livingtone and Stanley), and traced its whole course until he reached a new lake which he called "Livingstone." From this large body of water a second (or the same) river runs westward, which Lieutenant Cameron, having traced it for a considerable part of its length, believes to be the Congo (or Zaire), which falls in the South Atlantic in lat. 6 degree S., and long. 12 deg. 40 min. Having met with a tribe of hostile natives, Cameron had to choose between fighting his way through them, with the risk of losing all his journals, papers, and instruments, or of taking a different direction. He adopted the latter and more prudent alternative, though it prevented the absolute verification of the important discovery, in which he personally has the fullest belief, that the stream flowing out of Lake Livingstone and the river Congo are one and the same. Throughout his long journey, until near its termination, Cameron and his party were well treated by the natives. He reached Loanda, on the Southwest Coast, on the 19th of November, with his fifty-seven East-Coast men, all in good health, and was remaining at Leanda for an opportunity of sending these men home round by the Cape of Good Hope to the Zanzibar coast. As he did not lose a single man, he may rely on having as large an escort as he can desire from the East African Coast on any future occasion. If Lieutenant Cameron's discovery of a new lake, with a large river flowing into it at one end and flowing out of it at the other, be a reality, it would appear to show that the leading African rivers run out of large natural reservoirs. Thus, the Nile appears to flow from the northern extremity of Lake Albert Nyanza, into which had flowed a considerable river from Lake Victoria Nyanza. Whether any and what other rivers may have emptied themselves into these great lakes is what Livingstone did not, but Stanley may, ascertain. It remains uncertain, too, whether any water from Lake Tanganyika flows from the north into Lake Victoria Nyanza, or whether on the southern extremity water makes its exit from Lake Tanganyika and flows into Lake Livingstone. If these questions were affirmatively answered the facts would seem to be that the great African lakes are all connected, and that from this chain a body of water going northward becomes the famous Nile, while from the last and most southern of the lakes another river makes its way, taking a westerly course, and empties itself, under the name of the Congo or the Zaire, into the South Atlantic, which washes the entire western coast of the African continent. There is a traditionary belief to this effect among the old geographers.

Waltzing as a High Art.

[From the Home Journal.]

The gentleman approaches the lady by offering his left hand—one au fait will at the same time make a slight inclination or half bow. The lady places her right hand in that of the gentleman, who then extends his right arm in a direct line to the side, the forearm bent so as to form an acute angle. In this angle the lady will place herself, with the center line of the person opposite the line of the gentleman's right side, both persons on parallel lines, not forming an angle. In this position each will be looking over the other's right shoulder, and by the lady turning her head slightly to the left, the effect of the group will be greatly improved, and prevent all possibility of taking each other's breath, which is rarely pleasant, and in the case of a young man directly from the use of a meerschaum pipe, is "positively horrid," as many of the ladies have remarked. The lady places her left hand, hooked, upon the gentleman's right shoulder, the fingers appearing in front.

The right hand of the gentleman should rest very gently on the lady's back, as near the waist as possible, so as not to remove the upward pressure of the elbow directly under the lady's shoulder, as this is the lady's support, and must be held with sure but gentle firmness. The hand on the back should rest very lightly, and on every possible occasion slightly raised, so that the air may pass between, as in some cases the close contact induces perspiration, and may leave its mark upon the lady's dress.

Both persons should be slightly bent forward, from the hips upward, so that the shoulders may be only three or four inches apart, but the distance increasing downward; this leaves both parties free in their limbs, so that any contact of person or knees may be so avoided as a most serious mistake.

The gentleman's left hand, holding the lady's right, should be extended downward in a line with the body, the hands three or four inches distant from the person, the arms forming a gentle curve from the shoulders downward. No weights should be placed upon this arm; all the guiding and changes must be governed by the elbow under the lady's arm.

It will be found that the group will be perfectly modest in appearance, no more contact occurring than in a lady taking a gentleman's arm for walking. In conclusion, let it be remembered that beauty of thought and action may be as conspicuous in waltzing as in any other situation in life; that the gross waltz grossly, the vicious viciously, the refined and innocent innocently and in a refined manner.

Walt. Whitman, the Poet of Camden.

[From the Springfield Republican.]

There is a good deal of loose talk, from Joaquin Miller and others, about Mr. Whitman's circumstances. It is hardly decent to describe him as a neglected martyr. Simple facts are pathetic enough. His bodily health, broken by his years of work in the hospitals during the war, is probably gone beyond redemption; troubled with paralysis and a grave stomachic affection, he has the use of about one-third of his time, the rest is divided between positive suffering and passive disability. Yet the poet is true to his creed of joy, keeps up good spirits, gets out of doors every fair day, even visits other places, as lately Baltimore (where he was the only poet at the Poe monument dedication), and Washington. He is a noticeable man anywhere, with his magnificent patriarchal head and beard. He lives in Camden, New Jersey, with a brother, not yet in want, though three years of illness and enforced idleness have used up his savings. He desires and hopes to subsist, his remaining years, on some moderate income from his books, and we believe that his countrymen will see that his moderate ambition is gratified.

The Fires of 1875.

[From the Insurance Chronicle.]

We have managed to burn up during the year that is past property to the value of $86,328,035, of which loss $43,631,700 was distributed by means of insurance, and the remainder—a nearly equal amount—fell exclusively upon the owners. The tax we have paid to the "fire fiend" amounts on the average to about $10 per annum for each productive life in the country. And of this tax 75 per cent., at a moderate computation, was inflicted by causes entirely preventable—chiefly by carelessness and incendiarism.

Of the total loss $55,373,900 was caused by the burning of 3,662 "specials," and on account of this the insurance companies paid $28,052,890. October bravely maintained its reputation as the most disastrous month of the year, the losses during that month being $12,953,095. Strangely enough, the months of March and September, notorious as months of turbulent winds, show the least loss—$4,095,400 and $4,876,750 respectively.

First in the number come hotels, of which no less than 337—nearly one per day—were burned during the year. And these burnings were distributed pretty evenly throughout the year. Hotels burn in all seasons—in season and out of season—and in all latitudes and longitudes.

Next on the list came sawmills, of which 261 burned—the greater "mortility" being in the summer months, when many of them are idle. Liquor stores make a brave effort to keep up with hotels and sawmills in inflammability, but only 168 of them succeeded in getting burned. Drug stores—which every druggist will tell you never burn—come in a good fourth, with 133 burnings. Restaurants are close after them, with 126; and 119 livery stables were converted into chariots of fire.

Then come 107 losses on furniture factories, 96 on machine shops, 78 on flouring mills, 83 on planing mills, 78 on carpenter shops and 73 on blacksmith shops.

Churches and lumber yards and public halls burn very evenly; 75 churches, 74 lumber yards and 72 public halls.

Tanneries and woolen mills, newspaper offices and printing offices keep close together in the race for destruction—51 of each of the first three burning, and 48 printing offices.

Cotton mills, cooper shops and carriage factories make about the same contributions to the total number of losses, and wood-working establishments of every kind do their utmost to swell the aggregate.

But this table must not be mistaken for a guide by which the relative inflammability of different hazards can be computed. Because it records the burning of thirty-six breweries and but one celluloid factory, it would be absurd to infer that breweries were thirty-six times as hazardous as celluloid works. There were about 3,600 breweries in the country. There was but one manufactory of celluloid, and that burned.

Hats and Bonnets.

A physician of a London hospital writes to the British Medical Record: "There is no recognized reason why, of late years, neuralgia of the face and scalp should have increased so much in the female sex, as compared with our own. There is no doubt that it is one of the most common of female maladies—one of the most painful and difficult of treatment. It is also a cause of much mental depression, and leads more often to habits of intemperance than any other. This growing prevalance of neuralgia may to some extent be referred to the effects of cold upon the terminal branches of the nerves distributed to the skin, and the reason why men are less subject to it than women may to a great extent, I think, be explained by the much greater protection afforded by the mode in which the former cover their heads when they are in the open air. It may be observed that the surface of the head which is actually covered in man is at least three times that which fashion allows to a woman; indeed, the points of contact between the hat or bonnet and the head in the latter are so irregular as practically to destroy any protection which might otherwise be afforded. If I were to report to the journal a case of facial neuralgia cured on the principle of protecting the lateral and frontal surface of the face, as well as the superior part of the scalp, it might excite a certain amount of ridicule. I can assure you, however, that my patient considers that her case ought to be reported, for she says that, if we cannot do much for neuralgia with our prescriptions, we ought to oppose fashion when we find it prejudicial to health and productive of suffering."
